Assembly Snags On Proposal for New Bond Issue

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A legislative snag, involving the proposal to put a $500 million highway bond issue on next May's ballot, has dimmed hopes that the General Assembly can wind up its work in a week. There appeared to be no question that the proposal has enough support for adoption by the Ohio Senate today.

But it didn't have enough support Tuesday night to suspend the rules so the matter could be taken up for immediate consideration.

It will take 20 votes for Senate adoption of the bond issue resolution. It would have taken 22 Tuesday night to suspend the rules requiring such matters to "lie over" on legislative day after committee approval. So lawmakers are getting slightly behind schedule.

The House voted 117-11 Tuesday to allow construction of "Golden Age Villages" in cooperation with metropolitan housing authorities.

If the House goes along on the $500 million highway bond issue proposal and indications are that it will, the final decision will be up to Ohio's voters in the primary next May 5.

Gov. James A. Rhodes' administration says some major highway projects now being considered for 1969-1972 could be put under contract between next year and 1968 if the bond issue is approved.

To meet the state's resulting obligations, a penny-a-gallon gasoline tax imposed to pay for a $500 million highway bond issue 10 years ago would be continued. This yields about $33 million a year. It is due to be retired in 1972.

And the controversial, decade-old axle-mile tax, based on miles traveled in Ohio by trucks with three or more axles and producing about $18 million annually, also would be tapped.

Backers of the proposal figure the new obligations could be retired by the end of 1976.

Before the Senate Highway Committee recommended approval of the bond proposal Tuesday, all senators—Republicans and Democrats—were called into an unusual single "caucus" to hear State Highway Director P. E. Masheter explain it. Public and press were excluded.

The Senate seems to look favorably on the House-passed bill dealing with "Golden Age Villages," also an administration measure.

Doomed Dog Case Slated For Review

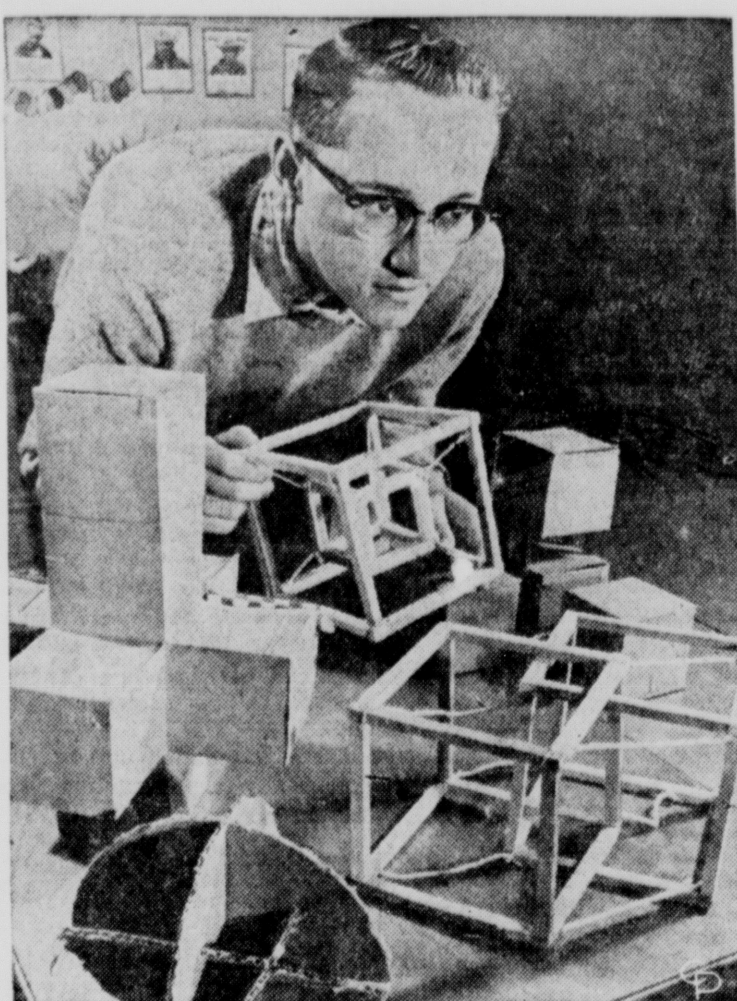

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Virginia's Supreme Court will review the case of a dog lover who balked at surrendering his pet for execution.

The court agreed Tuesday to consider the appeal of Jim Laing of Pearisburg, who was fined $1,000 and sentenced to four months in jail. His German shepherd, Ricky, was sentenced to death two years ago in Giles County Circuit Court for sheep killing.

Laing appealed, claiming Ricky did not kill the sheep, but was only standing guard over the carcass.

Twice the U.S. Supreme Court declined to review the case, and Laing was found guilty of contempt when he refused to surrender the dog for execution. He contended he had given Ricky to a friend and could not surrender what was no longer his property.

Ricky, meanwhile, remains safely in an out-of-state hideout.

INTERDIMENSIONAL MEASUREMENT — A 16-year-old farm boy of Monroe, Wis., John D. Wasserstrass, has developed a new concept of geometry, which he will demonstrate in Cleveland, Ohio, in December, as Wisconsin's representative to the Junior Academy of Science national conference. John calls his concept Indimetry, for interdimensional measurement. He said, "I was reading science fiction and got to wondering if there is a way to measure the fourth dimension."

City Appropriates $546,285 for '64

Appropriations totaling $546,285.50 were approved last night by Circleville Council. This money will provide for current city expenses and other operation expenditures for 1964.

The appropriations ordinance was presented to the council for final action following a detailed study by Councilman Dudley Carpenter and his finance committee and City Auditor Marvene Turner.

The figure for 1964 represents an increase of $45,290.50 over 1963. Last year the total amount approved was $500,995.

This 1964 amount is matched against a total of $599,129.02 in anticipated receipts. However, required amendments and routine transfers can be expected during the new year, according to finance committee members.

LARGEST portion of the budget comes under the general fund. This appropriation amounted to $278,883, compared to expected revenues of $287,000. Last year's appropriation was $257,463.

Services listed under the general fund are council, clerk and a fast card game.

Mrs. Susie Glover, 43, said she had withdrawn $150 from her savings account to do some early holiday shopping.

She said the two men met her at the bank and eventually talked her into the card game, letting her win. But to collect her winnings, she said, she had to withdraw $1,800 from the bank to show she could have paid them if she had lost. The card playing was in Mrs. Glover's car, police said.

"Boy, I didn't know you'd have that kind of money," one of the men said. "Here, let me put all your money and your winnings in this clean handkerchief."

She gave him the money and he tightly knotted the handkerchief. Mrs. Glover went home and untied it. But her money, she told police, had been replaced for a neatly folded newspaper page that felt like a pad of bills.

The newspaper was a financial page from the Wall Street Journal.

Pressure Up To Pass Civil Rights Bill

Some Republicans Oppose Effort To Force Vital Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—A plan by House leaders to resort to a petition in an effort to pry the civil rights bill out of the Rules Committee is threatening the bill's shaky bipartisan backing.

Most Republican members oppose on principle the idea of bypassing committees by getting a majority of the House members to sign a petition, and have little sympathy with the drive getting under way to move the civil rights bill to the floor in such a manner.

Meanwhile, civil rights leaders gather today in what was described as an extraordinary session to discuss means of implementing President Johnson's appeal for quick action on civil rights legislation.

The group—including Roy Wilkins of the NAACP and Dr. Martin Luther King—is expected to represent more than 70 organizations and plans to hold a closed meeting before visiting President Kennedy's grave in Arlington National Cemetery.

To speed up House action on the bill, Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., said Tuesday plans are going ahead to have a discharge petition filed Monday. Democratic leaders are hoping to have a large number of Democrats sign up at once.

They would like to get as many as 150 signatures by Tuesday, in which case they feel Republicans would be under heavy public pressure to supply the rest of the names needed to reach 218—a majority.

Such a strategy is almost certain to produce resentment among Republicans who support the civil rights bill, but who have never signed a discharge petition and never plan to.

They contend that Republicans have done enough to help get a civil rights bill to make them immune from such pressures.

The bill now in the Rules Committee was worked out largely by the Justice Department and key GOP members of the House Judiciary Committee as a compromise to break a committee deadlock.

The original report contains stinging criticism of the bill by Southern Democrats, and seven Republicans took it upon themselves to provide a rebuttal.

The Republicans called the bill the most significant legislation to come before Congress "in our lifetime," and wrote a strong endorsement of each of its 10 provisions.

IFK Guards Are Cleared

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Secret Service men who were seen in a Ft. Worth, Tex., club early on the morning of Nov. 22 were all off duty, a treasury official said today.

Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, said Tuesday he had reliable information that some agents were seen in the club as late as 2:30 a.m., but he had no information whether they had been drinking.

The treasury official said that the agents who were seen in the club had been working late and were off duty at the time they were in the club. Some of them did not reach the club until 1 a.m.

"We are satisfied that these men acted entirely properly and correctly," the official said.

Firemen Granted Salary Increase

Salary increases for members of the Circleville Fire Department were approved last night by City Council.

A new pay scale ordinance calls for a hike of $600 yearly for the fire chief and progressive increases for lieutenants ranging from $120 yearly to $300 yearly. The increase for firemen will range from $180 to $300 yearly.

Last night's legislation marks the first pay increase for firemen since December of 1961. A higher salary scale was granted to city police earlier this year.

The fire chief's new scale will be $5,100 per year. The old salary was $4,500.

UNDER the 1961 ordinance lieutenants were paid a flat $4,200 per year. The new measure calls for $4,320 during the initial 90-day probationary period; $4,380 after completion of the probation time; $4,400 on completion of two years; and $4,500 on completion of three years.

The old scale for beginning firemen was $3,660 per year. Under the new ordinance a beginning fireman will receive $3,960 yearly; on completion of three months the pay will be upped to $4,080; $4,200 on completion of one year; and $4,320

Residents Happily Assist in Salvage

ORRVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Some Orrville residents were doing their best to help salvage something out of a 15-car derailment Tuesday night.

When part of a Pennsylvania freight train jumped the tracks a tank car overturned and an aromatic liquid began leaking out. Investigators found out the tank car had contained 10,000 gallons of whiskey.

A spokesman for the railroad said some bystanders were sampling some of the hard stuff. Orrville by the way is in Wayne County where selling whiskey by the drink is illegal.

But Record Still Feared

$100 Billion Total Possible

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson set his sights today on a federal budget pared to "the lowest possible level," but has conceded the spending blueprint he sends Congress next month may reach a record $100 billion or more.

The economy, plus civil rights and national unity — the three keystones of the new administration — were on the White House agenda today.

To discuss the health of the economy—and also to make an appeal for support—the President summoned representatives of labor and big business to the White House.

Meetings were scheduled for late afternoon with members of the AFL-CIO Executive Committee and representatives of the Business Advisory Council.

Pressing his economy drive, Johnson conferred again Tuesday with Budget Director Kermit Gordon and his deputy, Elmer Staats.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said the Budget Bureau is launching "an agency by agency, department by department examination of the budget."

Salinger said Johnson will hear the appeals of any federal department heads who protest they are not getting enough money in the new budget, which will cover the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Kennedy had sliced the budget from requests submitted by federal agencies, Salinger said, and "President Johnson is attempting to cut that budget further."

"The attempt is to arrive at a budget between $98 billion and $103 billion," Salinger said.

While trying to reduce the gap between spending and revenue, Johnson was also setting his administration's tone in the matter of government regulation of business and industry.

The President called in the chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, Interstate Commerce Commission, Federal Power Commission, Securities and Exchange Commission, and a dozen other regulatory agencies. He told them he will continue "the battle against substitution of government's interest for the public interest."

"We are challenged to elevate our sights, to measure our performance by quality rather than quantity, to concern ourselves with new areas of cooperation before we concern ourselves with new areas of control, to take pride in how much we do rather than how much there is to do," said Johnson.

Mrs. Kennedy, Children To Occupy Historic Home

WASHINGTON (AP)—A home with a history and a warmth, greet Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy when she walks into her borrowed Georgetown residence Friday.

The new address for the former First Lady—3038 N St.—is a three-story red brick dwelling with plenty of room. Underecortary of State and Mrs. W. Averell Harriman, who own the house, have turned it over to the former First Lady and her children and have moved into a hotel.

From the entrance hallway with etchings by Picasso and Matisse in the stairwell, to the picturesque dormered third floor bedrooms, it is furnished for elegant and comfortable living.

The dining room seats up to 18 comfortably. There are fireplaces in all but one room and the house contains a collection of French, English and Chinese lacquer furniture and Lowestoft china. And the art collection would be the pride of a museum.

In the rear is a spacious, block-long walled and terraced garden, with boxwood and magnificent magnolia trees and a swimming pool. As she walks over the two Iranian rugs (gift of the shah) in the entrance hallway, past a Louis XV console with a big carved mirror of the same period of France's grandeur, Mrs. Kennedy will be in an atmosphere not unlike what she created in the White House.

The history books of Georgetown indicate this house dates back to the same period as the mansion at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave. which Mrs. Kennedy is vacating after almost three years. It is said to have been built in 1800, the same year President John Adams moved into the unfinished White House.

It was announced Tuesday that Mrs. Kennedy will move in Friday. There is no indication when President Johnson and his family will take occupancy of the White House, but probably soon.

The Harrimans, who once occupied the governor's mansion in Albany, N.Y., bought the Georgetown home last spring. Its prior owner was William Scranton, now governor of Pennsylvania.

Ruby Evidence To Be Bared

Data May Be Out Even before Trial

DALLAS (AP) — People throughout the nation saw Jack Ruby kill the accused slayer of President Kennedy and they're likely to hear nearly all the evidence before Ruby's murder trial ever starts.

Steps to set two formal inquiries in motion raised this prospect today on the heels of an eight-week postponement of the Ruby case, originally set for Dec. 9. The new date is Feb. 3, fixed Tuesday by District Judge Joe B. Brown because the prosecution and defense said they needed more time.

Fresh information came to light, meanwhile, about Lee H. Oswald, the 24-year-old Marxist charged with the Kennedy assassination, and Ruby, 26, a Dallas night spot owner who gunned down Oswald before a national television viewers just two days later.

In Washington, a former Marine Corps lieutenant in whose unit Oswald served for a time, John E. Donovan, said Oswald's military discharge and departure for Russia in 1959 caused a stir.

"That compromised all our secret radio frequencies, call signs and authentication codes," said Donovan, now a physics teacher in a private school. "He knew the location of every unit on the West Coast and the radar capability of every installation. We had to spend thousands of man-hours changing everything..."

An apartment house manager in Dallas, Miss Dean Roberts said a man who placed a newspaper advertisement demanding answers to a dozen questions from the Kennedy administration the day of the assassination has left town.

Miss Roberts said the man, Bernard Weissman, and a roommate, William Burley, paid a month's rent Nov. 5, but unexpectedly departed Nov. 27—five days after a sniper killed the President and wounded Texas Gov. John Connally. She said Weissman left a New York forwarding address.

Two congressmen have called for FBI investigation of the American Fact Finding Committee, for which Weissman said he purchased the newspaper space.

U.S. Reduces Extra Force In Germany

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has brought home about 31,000 soldiers who were sent to strengthen the Army in West Germany during the Berlin crisis two years ago, it was learned today.

This represents about 75 percent of the 41,000 troops, mostly rear echelon elements shipped overseas during late 1961 when the Russians were threatening to try to push the allies out of West Berlin.

The remaining 10,000 reinforcements probably will stay with the U.S. 7th Army for some time.

This places the 7th Army's current strength at about 242,000 men whose fighting power is concentrated in five divisions and a number of miscellaneous combat units adding up to a sixth division.

Anti-Cigarette Health Data Grows

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—You are past 40: Been smoking since age 15 or before? Inhale? A new barrage of figures linking smoking to disease and death may seem centered on you.

The broadest study of the subject yet made shows death rates increase with extent of exposure to cigarette smoke, says the American Cancer Society.

Its report today came on the heels of a proposal by the American Medical Association's Board of Trustees for a research program on tobacco and health "beyond statistical evidence."

The American Cancer Society's report was based on 422,094 men who filled out detailed questionnaires and then were traced for an average of 34.3 months.

Dr. E. Cuyler Hammond, the society's director of statistical research, outlined the new findings at the 17th annual clinical meeting of the American Medical Association. The figures confirm previous findings and go further, he said.

Pipe-smoking Dr. Hammond reported death rates were far higher among cigarette smokers than non-smokers, they increased with amount of smoking, and they were lower among ex-smokers of a year or longer than among current smokers.

The latest study, aimed at refuting challenges to six earlier ones, includes many new factors. One part of it compares death rates of 36,975 matched pairs (one smoker and one non-smoker).

The "twins" were matched for age, race, height, urban or rural residence, and numerous other characteristics—even degree of baldness and frequency of eating fried foods. The smoker in each pair used a pack of cigarettes a day or more.

Of the 36,975 matched pairs, 1,385 of the smokers died during the study compared with 662 of the non-smokers.

Lung cancer killed 110 of the smokers, 12 of the non-smokers. Fifteen smokers died of emphysema, another lung disease, compared with 1 non-smoker. More than twice as many smokers as non-smokers (684 and 312; died of two arterial diseases.

Other causes felled 579 smokers compared with 326 of the non-smoking "twins."

Among smokers age 40 to 69 who started before age 15 the death rate was 2.9 as high as among those who never smoked regularly.

Lung cancer death rates of current cigarette smokers were 11 times as high as non-smokers—18 times as high among very heavy smokers.

The American Tobacco Institute has said conclusive scientific evidence is lacking to show connection between cancer and smoking.

Dr. Hammond said other diseases found related to cigarette smoking included cancer of the mouth, throat and bladder, and gastric ulcers.

Partly cloudy today, tonight and tomorrow with a chance of scattered snow flurries. High yesterday, 33; low, 26. High today, 33-35. Low tonight, 20-24. High tomorrow, 36-40.

Assembly Snags On Proposal for New Bond Issue

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A legislative snag, involving the proposal to put a $500 million highway bond issue on next May's ballot, has dimmed hopes that the General Assembly can wind up its work in a week.

There appeared to be no question that the proposal has enough support for adoption by the Ohio Senate today.

But it didn't have enough support Tuesday night to suspend the rules so the matter could be taken up for immediate consideration.

It will take 20 votes for Senate adoption of the bond issue resolution. It would have taken 22 Tuesday night to suspend the rules requiring such matters to "lie over" on legislative day after committee approval. So lawmakers are getting slightly behind schedule.

The House voted 117-11 Tuesday to allow construction of "Golden Age Villages" in cooperation with metropolitan housing authorities.

If the House goes along on the $500 million highway bond issue proposal and indications are that it will, the final decision will be up to Ohio's voters in the primary next May 5.

Gov. James A. Rhodes' administration says some major highway projects now being considered for 1969-1972 could be put under contract between next year and 1968 if the bond issue is approved.

To meet the state's resulting obligations, a penny-a-gallon gasoline tax imposed to pay for a $500 million highway bond issue 10 years ago would be continued. This yields about $33 million a year. It is due to be retired in 1972.

And the controversial, decade-old axle-mile tax, based on miles traveled in Ohio by trucks with three or more axles and producing about $18 million annually, also would be tapped. Backers of the proposal figure the new obligations could be retired by the end of 1976.

Before the Senate Highway Committee recommended approval of the bond proposal Tuesday, all senators—Republicans and Democrats—were called into an unusual single "caucus" to hear State Highway Director P. E. Masheter explain it. Public and press were excluded.

The Senate seems to look favorably on the House-passed bill dealing with "Golden Age Villages," also an administration measure.

Pope Plans Visit to Holy Land

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI announced today he would make an unprecedented visit to the Holy Land in January.

The Pope did not set the exact date in his announcement, made at the closing meeting of the current session of the Vatican Ecumenical Council in St. Peter's Basilica.

The pontiff said he would be the first Pope to visit the Holy Land since St. Peter left for Rome after the death of Christ.

Presumably the Pope will go by air, the first time a reigning pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church has flown.

There was no immediate indication of what parts of the Holy Land the Pope planned to visit. Most of the great shrines of Christianity are in areas of Palestine occupied by Jordan—Bethlehem, and the walled old city of Jerusalem with the Church of the Holy Sepulchre. But Nazareth is in Israel.

Once Around Roundtown

MANY were thankful this morning when they discovered the weatherman's noon prediction yesterday failed to materialize. . . . An accumulation of 1.3 inches of snow was forecast, but many were quick to forgive the forecaster today.

The house the Johnsons plan to sell—known as "The Elms"—is located in the exclusive Spring Valley section of northwest Washington. It was estimated they paid between $160,000 and $200,000 when they bought it from Mrs. Perle Mesta in June 1961.

Mrs. Kennedy, Children To Occupy Historic Home

WASHINGTON (AP)—A home with a history and a warmth, greet Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy when she walks into her borrowed Georgetown residence Friday.

The new address for the former First Lady—3038 N St.—is a three-story red brick dwelling with plenty of room. Undersecretary of State and Mrs. W. Averell Harriman, who own the house, have turned it over to the former First Lady and her children and have moved into a hotel.

From the entrance hallway with etchings by Picasso and Matisse in the stairwell, to the picturesque dormered third floor bedrooms, it is furnished for elegant and comfortable living.

The dining room seats up to 18 comfortably. There are fireplaces in all but one room and the house contains a collection of French, English and Chinese lacquer furniture and Lowestoft china. And the art collection would be the pride of a museum.

In the rear is a spacious, block-long walled and terraced garden, with boxwood and magnificent magnolia trees and a swimming pool.

As she walks over the two Iranian rugs (gift of the shah) in the entrance hallway, past a Louis XV console with a big carved mirror of the same period of France's grandeur, Mrs. Kennedy will be in an atmosphere not unlike what she created in the White House.

The history books of Georgetown indicate this house dates back to the same period as the mansion at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave. which Mrs. Kennedy is vacating after almost three years.

It is said to have been built in 1800, the same year President John Adams moved into the unfinished White House.

It was announced Tuesday that Mrs. Kennedy will move on Friday. There is no indication when President Johnson and his family will take occupancy of the White House, but probably soon.

The Harrimans, who once occupied the governor's mansion in Albany, N.Y., bought the Georgetown home last spring. Its prior owner was William Scranton, now governor of Pennsylvania.

But Record Still Feared

$100 Billion Total Possible

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson set his sights today on a federal budget pared to "the lowest possible level," but has conceded the spending blueprint he sends Congress next month may reach a record $100 billion or more.

The economy, plus civil rights and national unity—the three keynotes of the new administration—were on the White House agenda today.

To discuss the health of the economy—and also to make an appeal for support—the President summoned representatives of labor and big business to the White House.

Meetings were scheduled for late afternoon with members of the AFL-CIO Executive Committee and representatives of the Business Advisory Council.

Pressing his economy drive, Johnson conferred again Tuesday with Budget Director Kermit Gordon and his deputy, Elmer Staats.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said the Budget Bureau is launching "an agency by agency, department by department examination of the budget."

Salinger said Johnson will hear the appeals of any federal department heads who protest they are not getting enough money in the new budget, which will cover the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Kennedy had sliced the budget from requests submitted by federal agencies, Salinger said, and "President Johnson is attempting to cut that budget further."

"The attempt is to arrive at a budget between $98 billion and $103 billion," Salinger said.

While trying to reduce the gap between spending and revenue, Johnson was also setting his administration's tone in the matter of government regulation of business and industry.

The President called in the chairmen of the Federal Communications Commission, Interstate Commerce Commission, Federal Power Commission, Securities and Exchange Commission, and a dozen other regulatory agencies. He told them he will continue "the battle against substitution of government's interest for the public interest."

"We are challenged to elevate our sights, to measure our performance by quality rather than quantity, to concern ourselves with new areas of cooperation before we concern ourselves with new areas of control, to take pride in how much we do rather than how much there is to do," said Johnson.

The house the Johnsons plan to sell—known as "The Elms"—is located in the exclusive Spring Valley section of northwest Washington. It was estimated they paid between $160,000 and $200,000 when they bought it from Mrs. Perle Mesta in June 1961.

Residents Happily Assist in Salvage

ORRVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Some Orrville residents were doing their best to help salvage something out of a 15-car derailment Tuesday night.

When part of a Pennsylvania freight train jumped the tracks a tank car overturned and an aromatic liquid began leaking out. Investigators found out the tank car had contained 10,000 gallons of whiskey.

A spokesman for the railroad said some bystanders were sampling some of the hard stuff. Orrville by the way is in Wayne County where selling whiskey by the drink is illegal.

Ruby Evidence To Be Bared

Data May Be Out Even before Trial

DALLAS (AP)—People throughout the nation saw Jack Ruby kill the accused slayer of President Kennedy and they're likely to hear nearly all the evidence before Ruby's murder trial ever starts.

Steps to set two formal inquiries in motion raised this prospect today on the heels of an eight-week postponement of the Ruby case, originally set for Dec. 9. The new date is Feb. 3, fixed Tuesday by District Judge Joe B. Brown because the prosecution and defense said they needed more time.

Fresh information came to light, meanwhile, about Lee H. Oswald, the 24-year-old Marxist charged with the Kennedy assassination, and Ruby, 52, a Dallas night spot owner who gunned down Oswald before a national television viewers just two days later.

In Washington, a former Marine Corps lieutenant in whose unit Oswald served for a time, John E. Donovan, said Oswald's military discharge and departure for Russia in 1959 caused a stir.

"That compromised all our secret radio frequencies, call signs and authentication codes," said Donovan, now a physics teacher in a private school. "He knew the location of every unit on the West Coast and the radar capability of every installation. We had to spend thousands of man-hours changing everything..."

An apartment house manager in Dallas, Miss Dean Roberts said a man who placed a newspaper advertisement demanding answers to a dozen questions from the Kennedy administration the day of the assassination has left town.

Miss Roberts said the man, Bernard Weissman, and a roommate, William Burley, paid a month's rent Nov. 5, but unexpectedly departed Nov. 27—five days after a sniper killed the President and wounded Texas Gov. John Connally. She said Weissman left a New York forwarding address.

Two congressmen have called for FBI investigation of the American Fact Finding Committee, for which Weissman said he purchased the newspaper space.

U.S. Reduces Extra Force In Germany

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has brought home about 31,000 soldiers who were sent to strengthen the Army in West Germany during the Berlin crisis two years ago, it was learned today.

This represents about 75 percent of the 41,000 troops, mostly rear echelon elements shipped overseas during late 1961 when the Russians were threatening to try to push the allies out of West Berlin.

The remaining 10,000 reinforcements probably will stay with the U.S. 7th Army for some time.

This places the 7th Army's current strength at about 242,000 men whose fighting power is concentrated in five divisions and a number of miscellaneous combat units adding up to a sixth division.

'Voice from Home' Program Offered by Red Cross Unit

The Pickaway County Chapter of the American Red Cross today announced plans for conducting its "Voice from Home" program again this year.

Mrs. Roloff Wolford, executive secretary, said the program is being offered to the immediate families of servicemen for the third consecutive year.

Mrs. Wolford in explaining the program said that members of the serviceman's family arrange for an appointment at her office to make a tape recording of family news and "holiday greetings". A photograph is taken of the family and will accompany the recording when it is mailed to the serviceman.

She suggests that wives, mothers, fathers and children participating in the program outline their thoughts before the appointment. Members of the family are urged to mention familiar happenings in the message.

Provided in the general fund was $3,500 in the city pay ground account. This money has been earmarked for assisting the future construction of a new shelterhouse at Ted Lew is Park. Members of the City Park Board had requested assistance funds at the Nov. 19 council meeting.

The street construction, maintenance and repair fund was listed at $44,800, while receipts were figured at $82,715.02. Last year's appropriation was $72,800.

Carpenter explained that payroll and material accounts in the street fund were figured for the first quarter of 1964 only. This is the reason for the lesser 1964 appropriation.

A total of $8,000 was appropriated for the State Highway improvement fund, while receipts were anticipated at $8,914.32. The appropriation last year was $15,652.

THE waterworks fund appropriation was $162,827.50, compared to estimated revenue of $168,000. The appropriation for last year was $106,670.

Appropriations coming under the sewage fund amounted to $50,775, with income estimated at $51,500. The appropriation for 1963 was $48,410.

Largest appropriations within the general fund were for police and fire salaries, which is normal for each year's budget. The amounts listed for 1964 provide for a police pay raise already in effect and a salary hike that was granted to firemen last night.

Carpenter said a concentrated effort was made by Mrs. Turner and his committee to distribute the city income to best meet needs for the coming year, and to allow Circleville to live within its budget.

General Relief Costs $6,370.43 in November

Pickaway County General relief totaled $6,370.43 for November with a case load of 84 according to Miss Pauline Roese, welfare director.

Although the total expenditure to indigent families was about the same for November 1962, the case load was decreased by 60, November 1962 cases totaled 144.

November home care (including food, rent and utilities) amounted to $2,066.27 compared to 1962 figures of $4,792.28. Hospital and medical care totaled $4,304.16 while the figures for the same period one year ago were only $1,571.78. Miss Roese pointed out that the case load was small this year, but the increase in medical assistance pushed the total expenditure to nearly that of a year ago with 60 more cases.

A further breakdown of the total receiving general relief money listed 26 cases as receiving only medical assistance. Nine of the cases received $282.50, but the money was earned by men working on county projects, she said.

THE general relief program is one of four programs that are under the supervision of Miss Roese.

The aid to dependent children program listed a total expenditure of $8,140 during November and assisted 293 children in 98 cases.

Sixty-two cases received $3,884 under the aid for the disabled program in November.

A total of $1,451 was used for the aid to the blind program with assistance given to 23 persons.

The welfare director pointed out today that aid for disabled grants were decreased from 95 per cent of need to 83 per cent, effective Dec. 1.

She continued, a section of the Public Assistance Manual was rewritten by the State Welfare Department to provide a new method for determining the assistance payments, which resulted in reductions since no special requirements are being allowed.

MISS Roese said that special requirements would include special diets, laundry, hospital insurance, life insurance, household help, telephone and so on, which are essential to most of "our disabled persons."

Under the new standard allowance table, a recipient living alone is eligible for $48 per month plus rent. The $48 includes food, clothing, personal needs and utilities for a one-month period.

Miss Roese expressed disagreement with the new setup since "every case should have individual attention" for their specific needs.

City . . .

(Continued from Page One) of council, mayor, auditor treasurer, solicitor, legal aid, vetting, municipal court, civil service commission, miscellaneous services and functions, department of safety to include police and fire, health department and service department.

Provided in the general fund was $3,500 in the city pay ground account. This money has been earmarked for assisting the future construction of a new shelterhouse at Ted Lew is Park. Members of the City Park Board had requested assistance funds at the Nov. 19 council meeting.

The street construction, maintenance and repair fund was listed at $44,800, while receipts were figured at $82,715.02. Last year's appropriation was $72,800.

Carpenter explained that payroll and material accounts in the street fund were figured for the first quarter of 1964 only. This is the reason for the lesser 1964 appropriation.

A total of $8,000 was appropriated for the State Highway improvement fund, while receipts were anticipated at $8,914.32. The appropriation last year was $15,652.

THE waterworks fund appropriation was $162,827.50, compared to estimated revenue of $168,000. The appropriation for last year was $106,670.

Appropriations coming under the sewage fund amounted to $50,775, with income estimated at $51,500. The appropriation for 1963 was $48,410.

Largest appropriations within the general fund were for police and fire salaries, which is normal for each year's budget. The amounts listed for 1964 provide for a police pay raise already in effect and a salary hike that was granted to firemen last night.

Carpenter said a concentrated effort was made by Mrs. Turner and his committee to distribute the city income to best meet needs for the coming year, and to allow Circleville to live within its budget.

Charles L. Tomlinson, local commander, today urged all local members to attend this meeting because most district projects will be planned for the coming year.

General Relief Costs $6,370.43 in November

Pickaway County General relief totaled $6,370.43 for November with a case load of 84 according to Miss Pauline Roese, welfare director.

Although the total expenditure to indigent families was about the same for November 1962, the case load was decreased by 60. November 1962 cases totaled 144.

November home care (including food, rent and utilities) amounted to $2,066.27 compared to 1962 figures of $4,792.28. Hospital and medical care totaled $4,304.16 while the figures for the same period one year ago were only $1,571.78. Miss Roese pointed out that the case load was small this year, but the increase in medical assistance pushed the total expenditure to nearly that of a year ago with 60 more cases.

A further breakdown of the total receiving general relief money listed 26 cases as receiving only medical assistance. Nine of the cases received $282.50, but the money was earned by men working on county projects, she said.

THE general relief program is one of four programs that are under the supervision of Miss Roese.

The aid to dependent children program listed a total expenditure of $8,140 during November and assisted 293 children in 98 cases.

Sixty-two cases received $3,884 under the aid for the disabled program in November.

A total of $1,451 was used for the aid to the blind program with assistance given to 23 persons.

The welfare director pointed out today that aid for disabled grants were decreased from 95 per cent of need to 83 per cent, effective Dec. 1.

She continued, a section of the Public Assistance Manual was rewritten by the State Welfare Department to provide a new method for determining the assistance payments, which resulted in reductions since no special requirements are being allowed.

MISS Roese said that special requirements would include special diets, laundry, hospital insurance, life insurance, household help, telephone and so on, which are essential to most of "our disabled persons."

Under the new standard allowance table, a recipient living alone is eligible for $48 per month plus rent. The $48 includes food, clothing, personal needs and utilities for a one-month period.

Miss Roese expressed disagreement with the new setup since "every case should have individual attention" for their specific needs.

Route 4 Youth Struck by Auto

Mrs. Lloyd Petty, driver of the vehicle, told Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff George Linder the youngster darted across the road into the path of her car.

He was taken to Berger Hospital by his father. He was X-rayed and released. The accident occurred on the Saltcreek-Pickaway Road.

Downgrading Beauty

Herbert Spencer never heard of the Club of Hard Heads before he wrote, "the saying that beauty is but skin-deep is but a skin-deep saying." Chances are, if the English philosopher had been acquainted with the club, he could have come up with some choice rebuttals to a motto like "always marry a woman uglier than you."

This phrase is more of a challenge than a motto, but it is the credo of an organization of 100 German university intellectuals. A beautiful woman is a liability in marriage, so the theory goes, because she is so busy being beautiful she has little time for husband, home or family.

Hermann Beider, secretary-treasurer of the Club of Hard Heads, has statistics at his fingertips to back up the argument. More beautiful women commit suicide, for instance, because of dissatisfaction and disappointments. They encounter psychological problems more frequently than their plain sisters when beauty begins to disappear with age.

And more pretty girls end up in asylums with nervous breakdowns. To add frosting to the cake, Beider is quoted as saying, "Beautiful women are not necessarily dumb, but generally they neglect to develop their intelligence."

Psychologists may not be able to refute the cold logic of the club's hard-headed analysis of beauty, but the lack of understanding of pure female beauty expressed by the intellectuals makes one wonder if membership in the club is limited to bachelors who have sealed themselves in dungeons filled with spiders and cauldrons of medieval potions.

Whatever their academic achievements, it is obvious the members have not mastered the fundamentals of understanding the creature called woman. Not only do they insult the entire gender by narrowing their field of definition to the one sense of visual preception, but they insist upon compounding the error by falling back on the old cliché of a pretty face and an empty head.

To paraphrase the Club of Hard Heads, one might say that university professors are not necessarily floating in the clouds, but generally they neglect to develop their common sense.

Historic Rite

The United States House of Representatives, as is its wont every six months or so, has just gone through another of its ritual dances around the national debt limit. Most of the Republicans joined hands and danced one direction around it, while the Democrats did the same and danced the other direction.

The latter outnumbered the former and so they carried the day and the debt-limit bill was approved and sent to the Senate where again it will be the center of a ritual ceremony.

Perhaps this should be the subject of study by anthropologists, as a historic rite that survives despite being totally meaningless. The debt limit never has limited the debt or Congress or anything, except the ability of the U. S. Treasury to manage the debt properly according to market conditions.

Shabby Fellows

British politicians are not as shabby as most American hoboos, but they aren't anything to write home about, either. That is, if one thinks that everyone holding high office should be immaculately dressed.

According to the annual Clothing Manufacturers Federation poll, British politicians have dropped from third to fifth place in the course of a year. Six years ago they were considered the best-dressed males in Britain. "A deplorable drop in standard." That's what the clothing manufacturers say—referring to the clothes the politicians wear.

Deplorable or not, politicians wound up fifth in the poll. Bankers came first, followed by actors, lawyers and building contractors. Journalists, no doubt, were breathing down all their immaculate necks.

The Business World

NEW YORK (AP) — A big spurt in productivity is being given much of the credit for the longer than average life of the present business upswing.

But the three-year better than usual rise in productivity is being both damned and praised. It is being tied to jobs and unemployment and to wages and prices and also viewed as a weapon in foreign trade battles. Productivity thus means different things to different people.

Its basic definition is how many units can be turned out in a manhour of labor.

To management this means the more units the lower the costs. Thus new equipment can be translated into lower prices, or maintained price margins, in competition with rivals at home or abroad. Or it can mean higher earnings, from which both future expansion and increased dividends can be paid.

To management this means the more units the lower the costs. Thus new equipment can be translated into lower prices, or maintained price margins, in competition with rivals at home or abroad. Or it can mean higher earnings, from which both future expansion and increased dividends can be paid.

For labor the recent increase in productivity often goes now by the name of automation. And to many individual workers this has meant a loss of jobs, or the fear that still newer machinery will take away present jobs. This is true both in factories and in offices.

Rising productivity is behind the drive for a 35-hour week higher fringe benefits, even in some cases a demand for a curb on future mechanization.

For government the rise in production has of late become a guideline for what is permissible, in the public interest, in the way of rising prices and wages. It is also a key factor in the drive for a greater rate of economic growth.

For the money managers the rise in productivity in the United States has been one of

Try and Stop Me
By BENNETT CERF

A SAD-EYED stranger sat down in the snack bar of a Memphis hotel and instructed the waitress, "Bring me some warm orange juice, two pieces of dry toast burned to a crisp, a couple of underfried eggs on a dirty plate, and a cup of coffee that tastes like mud." The waitress grinned, and in short order returned with a full tray. "Are you sure there's nothing else I can do for you?" she inquired. "There is one thing more," nodded the stranger. "You can sit down and nag me. I'm homesick."

A dull and conceited man-about-town accosted Miss Beatrice Lillie at a dinner one evening and said loudly, "I believe you invited me to a party at your hotel last Wednesday." "That's possible," admitted Miss Lillie cheerfully. "Tell me, did you come?"

Advice to malicious book reviewers from that master Stephen Potter: "Friendly attacks should begin with faint praise, but be careful not to use adjectives or phrases of which the publisher can make use in advertisements. Safe faint praise adjectives are 'well produced' and 'painsstaking.' Also effective is 'The illustrations and maps are adequate.'"

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...
By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

A growth was removed from my leg and was sent to the laboratory for examination. How is this "biopsy" examination performed and why does it take so long? It is very difficult for a patient as frightened as I am to wait a long time to know the results.

Mrs. L. L. K. Michigan
Dear Mrs. K.: When any tissue, such as a tumor or an appendix, is removed it is immediately sent to the Department of Pathology for laboratory study. First, the tissue is "fixed" so that all of its elements are kept unaltered for exact study. Then, the tissue is embedded in a small block of paraffin and hardened in preparation for microscopic study. The paraffin tissue block is then cut with a delicate slicing machine into the thinnest conceivable slices. Special dyes are applied to bring out the individual character of the cells that will reveal information necessary for diagnosis.

Under high-powered microscopes these dyed tissue specimens are minutely studied to determine if the tissue is benign or cancerous.

The personal physician and the pathologist, the doctor who examines the tissue, are aware of the patient's emotional urgency for this crucial report. They coordinate their efforts to bring to the patient the greatest emotional assurance during this anxious waiting period.

You Can Say It with Flowers

By EDDY GILMORE
(For Hal Boyle)

LONDON (AP)—You love the girl? Then send her a rose.

You're sick of the guy? Then send him a bouquet of Michaelmas daisies.

Want her to marry you? Send her sprigs of ivy.

Those and dozens of other sentiments and declarations—which can be expressed by flowers—are the subject of a book published here.

It's called "The Language of Flowers."

Explaining it, the publishers said: "To express gratitude or affection by the gift of flowers is common enough, but nowadays few people make use of the opportunities provided by this pleasant custom to express other and more specific sentiments."

"For instance, how nice and delightfully simple, to be able to express one's constancy with a bunch of bluebells, or to declare war with a sprig of wild tansy," they said.

The book, with illustrations, has 88 pages. The author is a Mrs. L. Harris.

It has two easy indexes. One explains what the various flowers, fruits and plants mean. The other explains numerous sentiments—and what to send to express them.

Here are a few:
Admiration—amethyst.
Ardor—the cuckoo plant.

Beware—oleander.
Coldheartedness—lettuce.
Dangerous pleasures—tuberose.
Disgust—frog ophrys.
Falsehood—yellow lilly.

A Clue on Romney

By John Chamberlain

If, as is being said in many places, Barry Goldwater is no longer a shoo-in for the Republican presidential nomination, the American public had better find out what some of the other Republican candidates think.

About Nelson Rockefeller, there is little mystery: he out-Kennedys the late John F. Kennedy on the integration issue (which makes him divisive in the South), he has had a world of experience in promoting a non-exploitative type of free enterprise in such Latin American countries as Venezuela (which would be a point in his favor if he were in supreme charge of making the Alliance for Progress effective), and he has flopped a bit in the efforts to solve New York State's fiscal problems (a point to remember for those who think the relation between taxes and spending is our chief worry).

So that's Nelson Rockefeller. But what about other Republican aspirants? Plenty is known about Nixon, of course. But Governor Scranton? And Governor Romney? Can any particular light be shed on what these men might be expected to do in the field of foreign policy? This is not something that is revealed by what they do in their respective State capitals of Harrisburg, Pa., and Lansing, Mich.

About Scranton I know little. But I think I have a clue to Romney's way of looking at foreign affairs.

Some time ago a friend of mine who knows Romney suggested that the Governor of Michigan admired a particular book that was published by Harper's back in 1959, "Beyond Survival," by Max Ways. I hadn't read the book, and I did nothing about the information except to file it dimly at the back of my mind. Then I ran into Romney at the Governors' Conference last July at Miami Beach. I asked him if it were true that Max Ways was his foreign policy mentor. His eyes lit up. "Ah, yes," he said. "Max Ways's 'Beyond Survival.' A first-rate book."

Unfortunately, when I asked for a copy of "Beyond Survival" at Mr. Ways's publishers, the answer was that it was out of print. However, Mr. Ways himself, a Fortune Magazine editor with whom I once worked, was willing to supply me with a copy. I read it with great interest, wondering what oases Governor Romney would particularly approve.

The book is less a critique of our current foreign policy than it is a discussion of the necessity for Americans to understand themselves if they are to know what kind of world they want to live in and struggle to get. It is an intensely moral book, preoccupied with the need to relate a valid natural law to the jungle of world politics. And it would obviously appeal to the moral man in Romney, who takes his Mormon religion with such seriousness that he "tithes" some ten per cent of his income to his church.

The thrust of Mr. Ways's book is best illustrated by a number of pithy summaries

LAST FOUR U. S. PRESIDENTS TOGETHER—This photo, one of the few showing the last four presidents of the United States together, was made Nov. 18, 1961, at the funeral of the late Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn. Lyndon Johnson was vice president at time.

Downgrading Beauty

Herbert Spencer never heard of the Club of Hard Heads before he wrote, "the saying that beauty is but skin-deep is but a skin-deep saying." Chances are, if the English philosopher had been acquainted with the club, he could have come up with some choice rebuttals to a motto like "always marry a woman uglier than you."

This phrase is more of a challenge than a motto, but it is the credo of an organization of 100 German university intellectuals. A beautiful woman is a liability in marriage, so the theory goes, because she is so busy being beautiful she has little time for husband, home or family.

Hermann Beider, secretary-treasurer of the Club of Hard Heads, has statistics at his fingertips to back up the argument. More beautiful women commit suicide, for instance, because of dissatisfaction and disappointments. They encounter psychological problems more frequently than their plain sisters when beauty begins to disappear with age.

And more pretty girls end up in asylums with nervous breakdowns. To add frosting to the cake, Beider is quoted as saying, "Beautiful women are not necessarily dumb, but generally they neglect to develop their intelligence."

Psychologists may not be able to refute the cold logic of the club's hard-headed analysis of beauty, but the lack of understanding of pure female beauty expressed by the intellectuals makes one wonder if membership in the club is limited to bachelors who have sealed themselves in dungeons filled with spiders and cauldrons of medieval potions.

Whatever their academic achievements, it is obvious the members have not mastered the fundamentals of understanding the creature called woman. Not only do they insult the entire gender by narrowing their field of definition to the one sense of visual preception, but they insist upon compounding the error by falling back on the old cliché of a pretty face and an empty head.

To paraphrase the Club of Hard Heads, one might say that university professors are not necessarily floating in the clouds, but generally they neglect to develop their common sense.

Historic Rite

The United States House of Representatives, as is its wont every six months or so, has just gone through another of its ritual dances around the national debt limit. Most of the Republicans joined hands and danced one direction around it, while the Democrats did the same and danced the other direction.

The latter outnumbered the former and so they carried the day and the debt-limit bill was approved and sent to the Senate where again it will be the center of a ritual ceremony.

Perhaps this should be the subject of study by anthropologists, as a historic rite that survives despite being totally meaningless. The debt limit never has limited the debt or Congress or anything, except the ability of the U. S. Treasury to manage the debt properly according to market conditions.

Shabby Fellows

British politicians are not as shabby as most American hoboes, but they aren't anything to write home about, either. That is, if one thinks that everyone holding high office should be immaculately dressed.

According to the annual Clothing Manufacturers Federation poll, British politicians have dropped from third to fifth place in the course of a year. Six years ago they were considered the best-dressed males in Britain. "A deplorable drop in standard." That's what the clothing manufacturers say—referring to the clothes the politicians wear.

Deplorable or not, politicians wound up fifth in the poll. Bankers came first, followed by actors, lawyers and building contractors. Journalists, no doubt, were breathing down all their immaculate necks.

The Business World

NEW YORK (AP) — A big spurt in productivity is being given much of the credit for the longer than average life of the present business upswing.

But the three-year better than usual rise in productivity is being both damned and praised. It is being tied to jobs and unemployment and to wages and prices and also viewed as a weapon in foreign trade battles. Productivity thus means different things to different people. Its basic definition is how many units can be turned out in a manhour of labor.

To management this means the more units the lower the costs. Thus new equipment can be translated into lower prices, or maintained price margins, in competition with rivals at home or abroad. Or it can mean higher earnings, from which both future expansion and increased dividends can be paid.

For labor the recent increase in productivity often goes by the name of automation. And to many individual workers this has meant a loss of jobs, or the fear that still newer machinery will take away present jobs. This is true both in factories and in offices.

Rising productivity is behind the drive for a 35-hour week, higher fringe benefits, even in some cases a demand for a curb on future mechanization.

For government the rise in production has of late become a guideline for what is permissible, in the public interest, in the way of rising prices and wages. It is also a key factor in the drive for a greater rate of economic growth.

For the money managers the rise in productivity in the United States has been one of the chief helps in keeping American goods competitive in world markets, thus increase exports and reducing by that much the surplus of outflowing dollars over returning dollars—known as the deficit in the balance of payments.

In 1961 productivity gained by 3.3 per cent and in 1962 by 3.9 per cent. The rate this year is believed even higher. Newer equipment now being planned or tested promises still further gains in the unit output per manhour of labor—to the delight of some, to the dread of others.

There have been marked ups and downs in the rate of increase since World War II, but the average has been 3 per cent. This compares with the average of 2.5 per cent from 1919 to 1947.

The trend to greater productivity seems likely to continue. As the bankers say, "there is no reason to think that the education, research, management improvements and technical progress, which are behind the productivity advance, will abate."

So all the gains from this new productivity will be with us. And also most of its problems may remain.

Try and Stop Me

A SAD-EYED stranger sat down in the snack bar of a Memphis hotel and instructed the waitress, "Bring me a some warm orange juice, two pieces of dry toast burned to a crisp, a couple of under-fried eggs on a dirty plate, and a cup of coffee that tastes like mud." The waitress grinned, and in short order returned with a full tray. "Are you sure there's nothing else I can do for you?" she inquired. "There IS one thing more," nodded the stranger. "You can sit down and nag me. I'm home-sick."

A dull and conceited man-about-town accosted Miss Beatrice Lillie at a dinner one evening and said loudly, "I believe you invited me to a party at your hotel last Wednesday." "That's possible," admitted Miss Lillie cheerfully. "Tell me, did you come?"

Advice to malicious book reviewers from that master Stephen Potter: "Friendly attacks should begin with faint praise, but be careful not to use adjectives or phrases of which the publisher can make use in advertisements. Safe faint praise adjectives are 'well produced' and 'pains-taking.' Also effective is 'The illustrations and maps are adequate.'"

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

A growth was removed from my leg and was sent to the laboratory for examination. How is this "biopsy" examination performed and why does it take so long? It is very difficult for a patient as frightened as I am to wait a long time to know the results.

Mrs. L. L. K. Michigan Dear Mrs. K.: When any tissue, such as a tumor or an appendix, is removed it is immediately sent to the Department of Pathology for laboratory study. First, the tissue is "fixed" so that all of its elements are kept unaltered for exact study. Then, the tissue is embedded in a small block of paraffin and hardened in preparation for microscopic study.

The paraffin tissue block is then cut with a delicate slicing machine into the thinnest conceivable slices. Special dyes are applied to bring out the individual character of the cells that will reveal information necessary for diagnosis.

Under high-powered microscopes these dyed tissue specimens are minutely studied to determine if the tissue is benign or cancerous.

The personal physician and the pathologist, the doctor who examines the tissue, are aware of the patient's emotional urgency for this crucial report. They coordinate their efforts to bring to the patient the greatest emotional assurance during this anxious waiting period.

I am 55 years old. Is there anything that can be done for a slight curvature of the spine and a hip that is higher than the other?

Mrs. S. R. A. Massachusetts Dear Mrs. A.: A medical problem of such importance has apparently existed for many years. Your own knowledge of your condition implies that at some time a doctor has been consulted.

The advice of your own doctor who has probably followed your condition for many years is infinitely more important than any advice that can be offered through a newspaper column.

There are many causes for curvature of the spine. Some are congenital (born with) in origin; others are acquired by illness, accident, bad posture and occupational positions of the body. Hip conditions, too, are similarly caused by diverse conditions.

The exact nature of your particular problem can only be determined by clinical physical examination in conjunction with chemical studies and X-Ray examination of the spine and hip.

When once the exact cause is determined, the treatment can be established. The fact that you are 55 years of age does not necessarily mean that you are by any means beyond hope for help. Many new techniques for the study of the causes and cures of orthopedic problems are available to you.

If, in your physician's judgment, the need for the opinion of a specialist in the field of bone surgery (orthopedics) is required, he will suggest it to you.

You Can Say It with Flowers

By EDDY GILMORE
(For Hal Boyle)

LONDON (AP)—You love the girl? Then send her a rose.

You're sick of the guy? Then send him a bouquet of Michaelmas daisies.

Want her to marry you? Send her sprigs of ivy.

Those and dozens of other sentiments and declarations—which can be expressed by flowers—are the subject of a book published here. It's called "The Language of Flowers."

Explaining it, the publishers said: "To express gratitude or affection by the gift of flowers is common enough, but nowadays few people make use of the opportunities provided by this pleasant custom to express other and more specific sentiments."

"For instance, how nice and delightfully simple, to be able to express one's constancy with a bunch of bluebells, or to declare war with a sprig of wild tansy," they said.

The book, with illustrations, has 88 pages. The author is a Mrs. L. Harris.

It has two easy indexes. One explains what the various flowers, fruits and plants mean. The other explains numerous sentiments—and what to send to express them.

Here are a few:
Admiration—amethyst.
Arduous—the cuckoo plant.

Beware—oleander.
Coldheartedness—lettuce.
Dangerous pleasures—tuberose.

Disgust—frog ophrys.
Falsehood—yellow lily.
Fascination—fern.

Hopeless love—yellow tulip.
There are three ways to express horror—by sending mandrakes, dragonswort, snakes-foot.

If you want to say "I'm worthy of you" you send a white rose.

Should you want to say "My best days are past" send co-chicum or meadow saffron.

Should you want to say that someone's absolutely perfect—the pineapple is the answer.

And it would obviously appeal to the moral man in Romney, who takes his Mormon religion with such seriousness that he "tithes" some ten per cent of his income to his church.

The thrust of Mr. Ways's book is best illustrated by a number of pithy summaries which the author supplies from time to time. For example:

"A few years ago people were raising the question of whether Americans could agree to co-exist with Communists. Americans have been proving for a long time their acceptance of co-existence. . . . The question that has traditionally interested Americans is not whether to co-exist but the terms of co-existence. Leave out concern for the terms, and you foreclose any possibility of brotherhood. You say either we refuse the other's right to co-exist and will exterminate him, or else you say we accept co-existence — and let him fix the terms."

This particular quotation illuminates the big failure of all our agreements with Khrushchev to date. We have either imposed no terms, or we have let him dominate the fixing of terms. Well, if Romney takes the book he admires with real seriousness, it is logical to suppose that, as President, he would try to focus the attention of his countrymen on the terms of co-existence rather than on co-existence itself.

It's good to know what candidates are reading. Does anyone know what books are on Scranton's bedstand?

Borrow Some Beauty Tips

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

You're missing a good bet Mom, if you don't borrow a beautifying idea or two from those who are closest to you. We mean Dad and Baby.

Dad may not be a beauty, but handsome is as handsome does, and Pop has some things down pat.

Consider his skin, for example. Despite shaving — or, we should say, because of it — his complexion is fresh and clear. Ever wonder why?

It's because the shaving routine itself is a real cleanser. He brushes up a rich lather and really works it into his skin.

Why not try the same trick yourself?

Borrow the idea but, for the sake of peace and harmony, not his shaving brush. Get one of your own. Its soft bristles will really work in the lather and cleanse completely.

Rinse well and then try another of Dad's techniques. Finish off your facial by patting on pore-closing astringent. This, after all, is just what dad's after-shave lotion is.

Can Baby talk to beauty? You bet she can! And it's a wise mother who borrows some of the aids that make a very Junior Miss marvelously appealing.

There's Baby's lotion, for example. It keeps that tender skin soft and smooth and will do ditto for Mom's hard-working hands. When you apply lotion to Baby smooth some on your self.

Baby's talcum is another delightful discovery for the new mother. Does anything smell sweeter, fresher or more appealing? Help yourself to some and make your motto "Like Daughter, like Mother".

You can even try babying your hair, for the gentle shampoo created just for that downy

Republican Women Plan Christmas Tea

Mrs. Elmer Siegle entertained members and guests of the Pickaway County Women's Republican Club for a carry-in luncheon and meeting Friday at her home.

A holiday menu was served and after completing the business session plans were made for an annual Christmas Tea. Because of illness, plans were changed from the home of Mrs. Eugene P. Hanson to 1 p. m. Dec. 17 in the First Methodist Church annex.

Members were asked to bring either one dozen Christmas cookies or sandwiches to the Tea. Any one who has not previously given a Christmas wrapped gift package, stating the age and marked for a boy or girl to be given to the Orient State School, may bring these to the Tea.

Following a Christmas musical program, Mrs. H. O. Caldwell, president and world traveler, will give an illustrated tour, showing pictures in color of her travels through Spain and Portugal.

Dear Abby: Be Tactful, Mom!

by Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law, who is otherwise a very decent and moral person, reads trashy literature. She gets all the confession-type magazines, illustrated with pictures of passionate kissing, or a drunken man ripping the nightgown off his wife. (You know the kind.) What she reads is her business and I really don't hold it against her, but I take my children to visit her often, and I don't want my 10- and 12-year-old daughters getting interested in trash like that. Lately when we go to Grandma's the girls head right for the magazine pile. They adore their Grandmother and I wouldn't have it otherwise, but what can I do?

IN BETWEEN
DEAR IN BETWEEN: Tell Grandma that you would rather not expose your daughters such "sophisticated" literature.

Family Night Conducted by Murphy Co.

The G. C. Murphy Company held its annual open house Monday evening for employees and their families. The event was planned by both management and store employees.

This "Family Night" gives employees an opportunity to share in holiday activities as well as to meet the families of their co-workers and friends. The local Murphy store was decorated in Christmas fashion. Refreshments were served and door prizes were awarded.

at their impressionable ages, and ask her kindly to ditch her collection when you visit.

DEAR ABBY: There's a very cute girl in my room, but I am sordid shy. Should I wait for her to drop a book or something before I give her any encouragement?

DEAR D.D.: Wait until she drops a LOOK. She could be "sordid" shy, too.

DEAR ABBY: It grieves me to see a wonderful woman like my stepmother treated the way she is, Abby, she has done things for my father that my real mother never did. He was a drunk when she married him (my mother divorced him) and he hasn't had a drink in over two years. She has worked by his side fixing up his little ranch. All his insurance is still made out to my mother, however. And although she is my real mother, she treated Dad like a dog because of his drinking problem, and finally threw him out. My stepmother made a man of him and if anything happens to him she won't get a thing. What can I do?

NO NAME PLEASE
DEAR NO NAME: Quietly remind your father of his debt to his second wife—your stepmother. But, remember, he may have regrettable obligations to your mother. So proceed cautiously.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WARREN: We all stumble and fall occasionally in this life. But a person isn't a failure until he says somebody pushed him.

Borrow Some Beauty Tips

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

You're missing a good bet Mom, if you don't borrow a beautifying idea or two from those who are closest to you. We mean Dad and Baby.

Dad may not be a beauty, but handsome is as handsome does, and Pop has some things down pat.

Consider his skin, for example. Despite shaving — or, we should say, because of it — his complexion is fresh and clear. Ever wonder why?

It's because the shaving routine itself is a real cleanser. He brushes up a rich lather and really works it into his skin.

Why not try the same trick yourself?

Borrow the idea but, for the sake of peace and harmony, not his shaving brush. Get one of your own. Its soft bristles will really work in the lather and cleanse completely.

Rinse well and then try another of Dad's techniques. Finish off your facial by patting on pore-closing astringent. This, after all, is just what dad's after-shave lotion is.

Can Baby tell you beauty? You bet she can! And it's a wise mother who borrows some of the aids that make a very Junior Miss marvelously appealing.

There's Baby's lotion, for example. It keeps that tender skin soft and smooth and will do ditto for Mom's hard-working hands. When you apply lotion to Baby smooth some on your self.

Baby's talcum is another delightful discovery for the new mother. Does anything smell sweeter, fresher or more appealing? Help yourself to some and make your motto "Like Daughter, like Mother".

You can even try babying your hair, for the gentle shampoo created just for that downy

Republican Women Plan Christmas Tea

Mrs. Elmer Siegle entertained members and guests of the Pickaway County Women's Republican Club for a carry-in-luncheon and meeting Friday at her home.

A holiday menu was served and after completing the business session plans were made for an annual Christmas Tea. Because of illness, plans were changed from the home of Mrs. Eugene P. Hanson to 1 p. m. Dec. 17 in the First Methodist Church annex.

Members were asked to bring either one dozen Christmas cookies or sandwiches to the Tea. Any one who has not previously given a Christmas wrapped gift package, stating the age and marked for a boy or girl to be given to the Orient State School, may bring these to the Tea.

Following a Christmas musical program, Mrs. H. O. Caldwell, president and world traveler, will give an illustrated tour, showing pictures in color of her travels through Spain and Portugal.

Cleric Tells Of Rebuff in 'Sin City'

FALMOUTH, Ky. (AP)—A reform movement leader testified Tuesday that when he told Mayor Ralph Mussman about evidence gathered on Newport gambling and vice, the mayor replied:

"If you get strong enough, I'll listen to you, but you're not strong enough now."

The Rev. Harold Barkhau said he had originally endorsed Mussman as candidate for mayor, but later helped found reform organizations that sought to oust Newport's city government. He was a founder of the Newport Ministerial Association and later was associated with the Campbell County Committee of 500.

Mussman and 10 other present and former Newport officials and policemen are on trial in Pendleton Circuit Court for conspiracy to obstruct the enforcement of anti-gambling laws.

Preceding the minister on the witness stand were Jack Cook, brother of Special Prosecutor Henry Cook, and Daniel Pinger, a reporter for the Cincinnati Enquirer.

Cook, 39, described prostitution at several Newport places in 1958, 1959 and 1960, including a restaurant where girls walked around with their blouses open and "I never saw anybody eating food."

Pinger described four of Newport night spots on March 2, 1961, on the eve of ouster hearings against several Campbell County and Newport law enforcement officials.

He said he lost $20 at the Flamingo Club and also observed gambling at several other places. Then, he said, he was offered a girl at a restaurant across the street from police headquarters and later was taken to a house of prostitution.

The wage increase will be spread over a three-year period.

Westinghouse plants which have been on strike include four in Pennsylvania — at Beaver, Blairsville, Youngwood and Cheswick—and plants in Horsehead, N.Y., Dover, N.J., San Lorenzo, Calif., and Athens Ga.

Seven Proud Reasons

LOUISVILLE (AP)—It took Mrs. Maxine Glose Parker 14 years to get her diploma but she had seven good reasons.

All of them were seated in the auditorium when she received her diploma from Aherns Night School. The seven youngsters range in age from 2 to 14.

Westinghouse OKs Pay Boost

WASHINGTON (AP)—Workers who have been on strike against the Westinghouse Electric Corp. will receive wage increases totaling 32½ cents an hour under an agreement ratified Tuesday by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

The agreement directly affects 1,000 workers in 20 plants but some 11,800 other employees of Westinghouse will receive the same benefits, the union said.

The wage increase will be spread over a three-year period.

Westinghouse plants which have been on strike include four in Pennsylvania — at Beaver, Blairsville, Youngwood and Cheswick — and plants in Horsehead, N.Y., Dover, N.J., San Lorenzo, Calif., and Athens Ga.

WATER LEVELS CONTINUE TO FALL — Water levels of many area streams continue to fall during what has been termed "one of the worst droughts of the century." The Scioto River bed is barren in many areas. The top picture is an example of the low level — the foreground shows an area north of the bridge on Route 22 that at normal conditions would be under several feet of water. Hargus Creek, a main tributary of the Scioto, (bottom picture) ceases to flow in many areas. The dry creek bed shown here is east of the Pickaway St. bridge.

OPPOSITE EXTREME — The Scioto River, at the Route 22 bridge is shown here in a situation vastly contrary to that of the top picture. The high level came during an early spring flood. The Pickaway County area has had only 2.73 inches of rainfall since Sept. 1. The rain gauge for the year stands at 32.05 inches — 5.34 inches less than the normal accumulation of 37.39. However, the Circleville area is in "much better shape" than many areas. No water rationing has been requested here by the City Water Department as a result of the new water plant and storage tank that went into operation this fall.

Pastor of Bombed-Out Church Still Nervous

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — "Every time I go through there I just get nervous," the minister said.

The Rev. John H. Cross goes through his church often—the Sixteenth Street Baptist church. A bomb killed four Negro girls in the church Sept. 15.

He goes with visitors — contractors, workers, and architects—to discuss repair of the bomb damage.

The church has been closed since the bombing. One wall is believed unsafe.

While city officials proclaim the future of Birmingham and outlined some of the prospects for his church in a recent interview.

—The start of repair and construction, possibly within two weeks, of the bombed part of the church, and the first service since the bombing, hopefully within two months.

—The setting up of a trust fund to finance the education and medical expenses of Sarah Jean Collins, 12, Negro girl who lost sight in her right eye in the blast. Her sister, Ada Mae, 14, was killed.

—Establishment of an educational fund for the brothers and sisters of the four victims. Cross hopes this fund eventually will be extended to other young members of the church.

—Construction of an educational building, to be dedicated as a memorial to the four dead girls.

The church has received contributions from the state and nation, from both whites and Negroes. Expression of sympathy has come from afar—Cross remembers telegrams from Wales, Canada and Australia.

Contributions total thousands of dollars. Cross said a committee in charge of the contributions has decided against disclosing the total sum.

The congregation has been loyal, Cross said. Services are being held in an auditorium.

As for the tragedy of Sept. 15, there's no forgetting.

"I think the shock is just now going to hit me," Cross said. "The farther away you get from these things, the harder it hits sometimes. I think how terrible it could have been. We could have had 25 or 30 killed."

"When I think of those narrow escapes, it becomes frightening."

Legislature Hits Snag on Bond Issue

Time ran out on essentially the same bill five months ago, when state lawmakers went home before the Senate could consider it.

It would permit sale of state land—especially on or close to the grounds of mental hospitals—to metropolitan housing authorities to erect living units for perhaps as many as 3,000 non-psychotic patients.

Supporters say it would permit these persons to live in a normal community atmosphere, yet close to regular professional care. The present $3,000 yearly income ceiling would be removed, and authorities would be given permission to determine the maximum allowable income.

A law setting up a three-member board for the program went into effect nearly 2½ months ago. But the State Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction, while discussing the possibility of letting various housing authorities build the units and lease them to the state, has been waiting to see what the legislature would do.

Columbus, Toledo, Massillon and Dayton-Cincinnati are considered likely initial sites if the bill is approved.

Without opposition, the House passed a bill to let Morgan County commissioners convey 65 acres around the County Home to the local Board of Education for a high school site. It goes to the Senate.

Representatives also approved, 93-35, and sent to the Senate, a bill which would prevent public disclosure of financial information submitted to Ohio's Development Financing Commission by companies seeking loans to locate or expand facilities in Ohio.

Commission members had a discussion with the press at one of their first meetings Sept. 27 when reporters were asked to leave while such data were being reviewed. The contention was that some firms might be reluctant to submit data if persons other than the commission have access.

A bill introduced in the House Tuesday calls for full payment of a public utility's property taxes (with possible rebate), even if it is seeking redetermination of its property valuation, so that the school districts which benefit will not be deprived of operating money.

Rep. F. K. Cassel, R-Wyandot the sponsor, says the measure stems from token payments — which are perfectly legal presently — by the Pennsylvania Railroad, which hopes to have its property valuation lowered. The only action senators took in their after-supper session was to authorize, 27-0, transfer of property in Piqua for highway purposes. The bill now goes to the House.

Santa and the Haunted House

By LUCRECE BEALE

Synopsis: Three children, Jeremy, Sissy and Miss Jo, were along in their house when a Storyteller came by and offered to tell them a story.

CHAPTER TWO NOG—THE BUGABOO

Once upon a time, began the Storyteller, there lived an evil Bugaboo in far away Santa Land.

"Oh, no," said Sissy, sitting at the Storyteller's feet. "Only good creatures live in Santa Land. They are Santa's helpers. Even the imps and goblins are good."

"Hush, Sissy," said Jeremy, poking her with his elbow. "He knows the story."

The Storyteller opened his eyes and gazed at Sissy. "You are right," he said gently. "Only good creatures live in Santa Land ordinarily. But it is not always so. And the time I am telling about there was a very wicked Bugaboo there."

Miss Jo gripped brother Jeremy's arm and swallowed. "What was his name?"

"Nog," said the Storyteller. He closed his eyes and was silent as though he had been overcome by the very name of the wicked fiend. Finally, he began again.

In the first place, he said Nog did not belong to Santa Land. He had always been a problem Bugaboo. The Queen Fairy who is responsible for these things placed him in Santa Land because she simply didn't know what else to do with him.

She tried having him work in the Weather Factory which manufactures storms but Nog was always fouling things up. He pushed buttons that made snow storms in August. He sent showers of hail down at inappropriate moments—like at someone's special birthday party. And one time he hid the key to the sun closet and the sun didn't shine for seven whole weeks. Not once.

Of course, you can't have things like that going on, so the Queen Fairy sent Nog to work with the Halloween witches, thinking if he were so tricky he might as well be useful while he was at it.

But Nog did things no spook or ghoul would ever have done. On Halloween he would catch people's cats and hang them up by their tails. He would take little children's treats away from them and fill up their bags with stones. He would tie up old ladies' doors so they could never get out of their homes not even if there was a fire.

Well, he was giving the Witches a terrible name, you can imagine, so finally the Witches went to the Queen Fairy and said:

"Look, you have to take Nog back. He's ruining us."

The Queen Fairy was at her wit's end because she didn't know what to do with him. And Bugaboos never die, you know so Nog was going to be around forever. Then one day at a party, the Queen Fairy was eating ice cream with Santa Claus and she told him about the problem.

Santa said, "Why don't you send Nog to Santa Land?"

"Oh my goodness," exclaimed the Queen. "He would absolutely destroy Christmas!"

Santa took a second helping of peppermint ice cream. When he had finished it he wiped his mouth with a big red handkerchief and said cheerfully, "I think I can handle him. Why not give it a try?"

There wasn't anything else the Queen Fairy could do but give it a try so she sent Nog off to Santa Land and hoped for the best.

Freed Killer Says Memory To Be Eternal

CLEVELAND (AP) — "I'm never going to forget it," said Roy R. Schinagle Jr., a few hours after walking through the gates of Ohio Penitentiary to freedom.

Schinagle, 29, talked Monday night to a newsmen in the Mayfield Heights home of his parents. He chatted about the more than 10 years he served of a life sentence for the murder of his pregnant college sweetheart.

"It's not the kind of thing you can forget," said Schinagle. "I've been living with it for 10 years, and I'll be living with it forever. It can't be washed away. I know that."

Schinagle was a sophomore at Ohio Wesleyan University when Cynthia Pfeil, 19, of White Plains, N. Y., was slain in what later was called "The Red Slip" case. She was wearing when she was killed a red slipper which helped establish her identity because she was so badly beaten.

"That's over and done with," Schinagle said of the controversy that almost cost him his parole.

Last month Gov. James A. Rhodes asked the Parole Commission to temporarily suspend Schinagle's parole after it was learned he had visited a 23-year-old Columbus girl while serving as a prison trustee.

Looking ahead, Schinagle said he has several job leads and hopes to finish his college education at Ohio State University by studying penal sociology.

"At Ohio Wesleyan," he said.

snow storms in August. He sent showers of hail down at inappropriate moments—like at someone's special birthday party. And one time he hid the key to the sun closet and the sun didn't shine for seven whole weeks. Not once.

Of course, you can't have things like that going on, so the Queen Fairy sent Nog to work with the Halloween witches, thinking if he were so tricky he might as well be useful while he was at it.

But Nog did things no spook or ghoul would ever have done. On Halloween he would catch people's cats and hang them up by their tails. He would take little children's treats away from them and fill up their bags with stones. He would tie up old ladies' doors so they could never get out of their homes not even if there was a fire.

Well, he was giving the Witches a terrible name, you can imagine, so finally the Witches went to the Queen Fairy and said:

"Look, you have to take Nog back. He's ruining us."

The Queen Fairy was at her wit's end because she didn't know what to do with him. And Bugaboos never die, you know so Nog was going to be around forever. Then one day at a party, the Queen Fairy was eating ice cream with Santa Claus and she told him about the problem.

Santa said, "Why don't you send Nog to Santa Land?"

"Oh my goodness," exclaimed the Queen. "He would absolutely destroy Christmas!"

Santa took a second helping of peppermint ice cream. When he had finished it he wiped his mouth with a big red handkerchief and said cheerfully, "I think I can handle him. Why not give it a try?"

There wasn't anything else the Queen Fairy could do but give it a try so she sent Nog off to Santa Land and hoped for the best.

Freed Killer Says Memory To Be Eternal

CLEVELAND (AP) — "I'm never going to forget it," said Roy R. Schinagle Jr., a few hours after walking through the gates of Ohio Penitentiary to freedom.

Schinagle, 29, talked Monday night to a newsman in the Mayfield Heights home of his parents. He chatted about the more than 10 years he served of a life sentence for the murder of his pregnant college sweetheart.

"It's not the kind of thing you can forget," said Schinagle. "I've been living with it for 10 years, and I'll be living with it forever. It can't be washed away. I know that."

Schinagle was a sophomore at Ohio Wesleyan University when Cynthia Pfeil, 19, of White Plains, N. Y., was slain in what later was called "The Red Slip" case. She was wearing when she was killed a dress that helped establish her identity because she was so badly beaten.

"That's over and done with," Schinagle said of the controversy that almost cost him his parole.

Last month Gov. James A. Rhodes asked the Parole Commission to temporarily suspend Schinagle's parole after it was learned he had visited a 23-year-old Columbus girl while serving as a prison trustee.

Looking ahead, Schinagle said he has several job leads and hopes to finish his college education at Ohio State University by studying penal sociology.

"At Ohio Wesleyan," he said.

More College Aid Is Urged

Ohio Solon Seeks Big Appropriation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Sen. William H. Deddens, R-Hamilton, wants appropriations for higher education boosted from 70 million to $105 million.

The Senate Finance Committee chairman said at a hearing here he would offer an amendment to a pending bill allocating funds from a voter - approved $250 million bond issue for capital improvements.

The proposed increase for higher education would lift the appropriation bill total from about $120 million to nearly $150 million. That sum includes some highway and natural resources funds.

Under Deddens' proposal municipal universities in Cincinnati, Akron and Toledo would get $6 million each and the Dayton branch university $6 million. Youngstown University would receive $5 million and $12 million would go to Cuyahoga County.

Allocations in the pending bill range from $500,000 to $3 million for those schools.

An Ohio Education Association spokesman warned that use of liquor profits for technical institutes might result in new or increased taxes.

John Hall made the assertion at a hearing of the House Elections and Federal Relations Committee on an administration proposal to finance institutes, research centers and other operations.

Rep. Charles F. Kurfess, R-Wood, committee chairman, sponsored a bill to authorize up to $150 million for liquor profits for such projects over a period of years.

Hall conceded that the state lags "most seriously" in technical institutes but he questioned an increase in the state debt to finance them.

Kurfess explained that liquor funds are separate from the state's general fund.

Hall replied that if they were used for other purposes they would not be available for general state operations and new revenue might be needed to replace them.

Students Should Know

HONOLULU (AP) — The University of Hawaii has introduced a new course for its students. The course is entitled, "How To Study."

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—The assassination of President Kennedy raises some grisly questions which were not a problem when John Wilkes Booth planned to kill President Lincoln and some of the highest officials around him.

There were no intercontinental ballistic missiles in Lincoln's day. At that time the nation could not be in immediate danger of someone were not found within a matter of minutes to become president and commander-in-chief.

Now a few moments — the time between the start of an enemy nuclear attack and the order to make a nuclear counter-attack—could mean the difference between annihilation and some survival if not victory.

Officials have said American nuclear missiles are so well scattered and protected and could reply so fast that an enemy beginning an attack would be equally devastated.

Such statements, a discouragement to an enemy, are based on the assumption that at the moment of attack there would be someone in supreme authority to order, and very quickly, a counter-blow.

As commander-in-chief, the president would give the order. If the president were killed, the vice president, by becoming president and commander-in-chief, would give the order.

Under a 1947 law, if there is no president or vice president, then next in line of succession to the presidency are the speaker of the house, the speaker pro tempore of the Senate, and then the Cabinet officers, starting with the secretary of state.

So the line of succession spelled out this way, looks clear and simple. If the enemy began an attack by dropping nuclear bombs on Washington, the president and all those next in line might be wiped out.

Since time then would be so precious, the highest military officers would have to give the counter-attack order. This might be done quickly — although there's a question it would be—once it was learned Washington was gone.

But suppose an enemy decided, before beginning an attack it would be shrewder first to create such confusion and chaos in America that a counter-attack might be fatally delayed after the barrage on this country began.

Such a foe might think in terms of assassination, not of the president alone, but those in the immediate line of succession: The vice president and the two congressional leaders.

It isn't hard to imagine the dismay and confusion after four such assassinations if they all occurred within a few minutes. The telephone lines would be a mess. And how could anyone be sure who was dead and who was alive?

In short, then, who would be sure for some time that he was the next in line to take the oath of president and become commander-in-chief? And suppose right then the enemy began the attack.

Who could order the retaliatory nuclear blow if there were no president?

This writer asked the question around Washington and was told, although not officially, that undoubtedly the secretary of defense would take it on himself to issue the counter-attack order, since every second counted.

Any secretary of defense in such a situation would probably do that even though he was exceeding his prescribed authority. If anyone was left to dig himself out of the American ruins, he wouldn't be thinking about fine and unprecedented constitutional questions.

But suppose, in the general assassination plot, the secretary of defense was also killed. What then?

This can be said on excellent authority: There is a secret procedure in the government for action in case of an emer-

DeMille Aloof to Stars, But Big Success Anyway

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Television, which lately has seemed intent on interring the movie up with a special on the late industry before its time, came Cecil B. DeMille called "World's Greatest Showman."

The title of Sunday's telecast was apt, as was much of the commentary. There were some inaccuracies, as when Charlton Heston boasted that "The Ten Commandments" was the most successful movie of all time — "Gone With the Wind" is still champion.

The special was ripe with sentiment, the climax coming when Heston cocked an ear to the presumably posthumous voice of DeMille — coming from above, of course.

The show offered fascination, thanks to the provocative character of the old showman himself and to the clips from monumental scenes he has directed.

Next month will mark four years since DeMille's heart finally gave out at the age of 77. With the passing of time it is possible to make an evaluation of the man and his contribution to the screen—in perhaps a more realistic way than did the television special.

The show displayed DeMille's only attempt at screen acting, a brief sequence in which he played himself in "Sunset Boulevard" with Gloria Swanson. He was excellent—as is John Huston in his first outing as an actor in the current "The Cardinal."

DeMille, like Huston and other great directors, actually was an actor. He played the DeMille legend to the hilt. He was delighted with the awe he inspired in common folk. His ability to cow and browbeat underlings was a studied art.

Actors didn't like him. Perhaps this was instinctive, stemming from their knowledge of his actor-like qualities in competition with themselves. More likely it was because of his frigid, aloof attitude. Actors to him were merely part of the logistics of film making.

The absence of the human touch showed in his films. The human relationships were seldom more than surface, the love scenes often laughable.

No actor called him Cecil. He was "C.B." to even the top stars, or more likely "Mr. DeMille." Though he had directed hundreds of stars in his 47 years of movie making, only Bob Hope and two or three others appeared at his funeral.

But Cecil Blount DeMille did not aim to be loved by actors. His great passion was making movies and he did that with greater success than anyone in Hollywood history.

Ohioans Urged: Buy Ohio Trees

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes has issued a proclamation asking Ohioans to use Ohio - grown Christmas trees and Ohio-made lights and decorations this Christmas.

He pointed out that Ohio annually harvests two million Christmas trees, but that there are more than three million homes which celebrate the season with a tree. The balance must come from out of state.

The governor said growing Christmas trees is part of the state's agricultural endeavor which with proper harvesting provides recreation areas and re-establishes forests.

DeMille Aloof to Stars, But Big Success Anyway

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Television, which lately has seemed intent on interring the movie up with a special on the late industry before its time, came Cecil B. DeMille called "World's Greatest Showman."

The title of Sunday's telecast was apt, as was much of the commentary. There were some inaccuracies, as when Charlton Heston boasted that "The Ten Commandments" was the most successful movie of all time—"Gone With the Wind" is still champion.

The special climax with sentiment, the climax coming when Heston cocked an ear to the presumably posthumous voice of DeMille—coming from above, of course.

The show offered fascination, thanks to the provocative character of the old showman himself and to the clips from monumental scenes he has directed.

Next month will mark four years since DeMille's heart finally gave out at the age of 77. With the passing of time it is possible to make an evaluation of the man and his contribution to the screen—in perhaps a more realistic way than did the television special.

The show displayed DeMille's only attempt at screen acting, a brief sequence in which he played himself in "Sunset Boulevard" with Gloria Swanson. He was excellent—as is John Huston in his first outing as an actor in the current "The Cardinal."

DeMille, like Huston and other great directors, actually was an actor. He played the DeMille legend to the hilt. He was delighted with the awe he inspired in common folk. His ability to cow and browbeat underlings was a studied art.

Actors didn't like him. Perhaps this was instinctive, stemming from their knowledge of his actor-like qualities in competition with themselves. More likely it was because of his frigid, aloof attitude. Actors to him were merely part of the logistics of film making.

The absence of the human touch showed in his films. The human relationships were seldom more than surface, the love scenes often laughable.

No actor called him Cecil. He was "C.B." to even the top stars, or more likely "Mr. DeMille." Though he had directed hundreds of stars in his 47 years of movie making, only Bob Hope and two or three others appeared at his funeral.

But Cecil Blount DeMille did

not aim to be loved by actors. His great passion was making movies and he did that with greater success than anyone in Hollywood history.

Ohioans Urged: Buy Ohio Trees

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes has issued a proclamation asking Ohioans to use Ohio-grown Christmas trees and Ohio-made lights and decorations this Christmas.

He pointed out that Ohio annually harvests two million Christmas trees, but that there are more than three million homes which celebrate the season with a tree. The balance must come from out of state.

The governor said growing Christmas trees is part of the state's agricultural endeavor which with proper harvesting provides recreation areas and re-establishes forests.

Nursing Home Hazards Found

CLEVELAND (AP) — Potential fire hazards were found in three of the nine Huron County nursing homes inspected following a fire Nov. 23 at the Golden Age Nursing Home near Fitchville in which 83 elderly patients died, the Cleveland Plain Dealer said.

Operators of the homes—two in Norwalk and one in a small community southwest of Norwalk—were given oral orders to eliminate the hazards, the newspaper said in a special dispatch from Norwalk.

Sheriff John Borgia asked the State Fire Marshal's Office for the inspections shortly after the Fitchville fire, it was reported.

tended were Beverly Coey, Kathy Lyons, Debbie Downs, Suzanne Gearhart, Mike Likens, David Kelley and Mike Search.

Suzanne Gearhart and Vicki Rossiter, seamstresses of Kingston High School, were winners in the Nov. 16 annual American Wool Contest held at Highland School in Clinton County. The contest is sponsored by the Wool Growers of America and the entries had to be 100 per cent American wool.

Suzanne's entry, a tan suit with double breasted jacket and black accessories was judged the most versatile suit. Vicki won the most versatile dress award.

high school classes Nov. 1-16 in observance of American Education Week. The visitation program was designed to acquaint parents with the aims of modern education and the personal responsibility of each adult for this education.

Strangers seeing the sign, painted on both ends of the barn, stop in to ask Liebst why he put up the sign. He tells them, "to give people something to think about—give them strength." He says, "I believe they go away feeling a little bit better."

New Authority Given Bishops

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI reduced the dependence of Roman Catholic bishops on the Vatican Tuesday, extending them certain limited powers on a permanent basis.

The Roman Catholic pontiff, appearing in persons before the Vatican Ecumenical Council promulgated a decree which apparently put him on the side of progressive bishops of collegiality—the concept that the bishops as a whole share with the Pope in authority over the Church.

The main power granted by the Pope was the right for the bishops to exercise on their own 40 faculties, or powers, they previously could use only on application to the Curia.

Pope Paul also granted eight privileges, or concessions. One is entirely new for bishops. It is the privilege, previously possessed only by cardinals, to preach and hear confessions anywhere in the world, and not in their own dioceses alone.

The other seven privileges—like the faculties—were previously allowed on application.

One of the most important grants is the right of bishops to decide marriage cases involving "The Pauline Privilege," with out consulting the Vatican. These are marriages involving two unbaptized persons, one of whom decides after marriage to become a Catholic. If the other objects, "The Pauline Privilege" allows their marriage to be dissolved after the one is converted. The converted Catholic is free to marry again. The privilege is named after St. Paul because the concept is derived from his letter to the Corinthians.

Another faculty permits bishops to allow illegitimate youths to enter the priesthood.

Bishops are also allowed to grant permission to Catholics to read books on the index of reading matter forbidden by the Church when the books are used for research or study purposes.

Most of the powers, including the one concerning the index, previously were obtained by bishops for 5 and 10-year periods.

New Kind of Ticket

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Motorists in suburban Florissant sometimes find the long arm of the law extending theater tickets, instead of traffic tickets.

The theater tickets are part of a new driving courtesy program of the Florissant Police Department. The local Junior Chamber of Commerce developed the idea.

When a policeman stops a well-mannered driver, he issues him two tickets to a local theater. The courtesy citation is canceled by the theater and returned to the driver as a souvenir. Two tickets to a local theater.

Another faculty permits bishops to allow illegitimate youths to enter the priesthood.

Bishops are also allowed to grant permission to Catholics to read books on the index of reading matter forbidden by the Church when the books are used for research or study purposes.

Most of the powers, including the one concerning the index, previously were obtained by bishops for 5 and 10-year periods.

New Kind of Ticket

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Motorists in suburban Florissant sometimes find the long arm of the law extending theater tickets, instead of traffic tickets.

The theater tickets are part of a new driving courtesy program of the Florissant Police Department. The local Junior Chamber of Commerce developed the idea.

When a policeman stops a well-mannered driver, he issues him two tickets to a local theater. The courtesy citation is canceled by the theater and returned to the driver as a souvenir. Two tickets to a local theater.

Kennedy, Lincoln Cases Show Tragic Parallels

WASHINGTON (AP) — "His wound is mortal; it is impossible for him to recover." These were the words of the first doctor to reach Abraham Lincoln's side after an assassin's bullet crashed into the back of his head almost a century ago.

Ironically, they were almost echoed by Dr. Malcolm Perry of Parkland Hospital in Dallas, where President Kennedy was rushed after he was shot by an assassin Nov. 22.

"We never had any hope of saving his life," Dr. Perry told newsmen within a few hours after Kennedy's death was announced.

Another medical parallel between the two tragedies is to be found in a report written in 1954 by Col. Hugh R. Gilmore Jr., a former curator of the medical museum of the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology.

Summarizing various records of Lincoln's case, Col. Gilmore had this to say about the medical care given Lincoln immediately after the shooting, while the mortally wounded President still was in the box at Ford Theater:

"Three Army doctors in the audience rushed to the box... the wound was located and artificial respiration applied, for the patient was pulseless and his breathing was hardly evident."

Dr. Perry, who attended President Kennedy, said that shortly after he reached the president's side in the emergency room, the chief executive's heart action failed and "there was no palpable pulse beat." Nevertheless, he and a team of other doctors administered all the various emergency procedures in the futile attempt to save the President's life.

Mallory Case Still Pushed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Mrs. Willie Mae Mallory has had another setback in her legal fight against extradition to North Carolina to face kidnapping charges stemming from a racial incident.

The latest came when the U. S. Supreme Court for a second time refused to consider her appeal and Gov. James A. Rhodes announced he would not intervene.

But her attorney, Walter Haffner, said in Cleveland he would file for an application for a rehearing by the high court. In Cleveland, the local chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) said in a telegram to the governor:

"We regard your decision... to be a shameful betrayal of our campaign promises... unless you reverse your decision we pledge to help defeat you in the next election."

A CORE official said he was unable to furnish any statement by Rhodes that could have been regarded as a pledge in the Mallory case.

Man Is Accused In Fatal Shooting

WAVERLY, Ohio (AP) — First-degree murder charges were filed Tuesday against Herman Bevin in the aftermath of a triple shooting Sunday that resulted in the death of a Bainbridge man.

Bevin, 44, is charged in the slaying of James Duffield, 22. The shooting in Bevin's near-Bainbridge home also left Bevin and his wife, Nellie, 47, wounded. Both are in good condition.

Authorities said the shooting apparently followed an argument over ownership of a billfold. Bevin was to be taken to Lima State Hospital Tuesday for 30 days' observation.

LOOKING TO '64—Assuming President Johnson will want the Democratic nomination for president in 1964 (any odds you want), he's casting about for a running mate and can hardly fail to see the Minnesota senators, Hubert Humphrey and Eugene McCarthy. They've got geographical availability, Humphrey is a liberal to balance Johnson's moderation, and McCarthy would restore a Catholic to the ticket. Another thing, McCarthy is an orator. When McCarthy placed Adlai Stevenson's name in nomination for president at the last convention, Stevenson said the speech was rivaled by only one he had heard.

Another Chapter: 'Jacqueline' Needed in 'Profiles in Courage'

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY
WASHINGTON (AP) — "Profiles in Courage," the title reads.

And before the next edition of John F. Kennedy's book comes to the press, some one should prepare a new chapter—a chapter leading all the rest.

This—the world would agree—should bear the simple title: "Jacqueline."

Only who shall write it? A writer in a London newspaper tried, and fell short. For he seemed to relinquish reluctantly the notion that only those who wear visible crowns are queens.

"Jacqueline Kennedy," he said, "has given the American people from this day on one thing they have always lacked—majesty."

Some said only a little while ago that she was merely a high-echelon glamor girl. This winsome girl who: born of wealth, became a linguist, an inquiring photographer for a newspaper, a horsewoman, a water skier, a lover of the arts new and old.

Khrush, Finn Chief Hold Successful Hunt

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev and his guest, President Urho Kekkonen of Finland, each got an elk buck and a bear on a weekend hunt in a forest reserve northwest of Moscow, a Finnish Embassy attache reports.

The two executives were back in Moscow Tuesday and had a long talk at the Kremlin. The subject of their conversation wasn't disclosed.

Many place names on Australian maps, such as Poonda, Ethel Creek, Walgun and Balfour Downs, indicate not towns or villages but sheep and cattle stations and individual homesteads.

a person who gazed long at the Mona Lisa while her husband champed to be off to his high duties, a woman who only last month sailed through the fabled isles of Greece dreaming "the dream of my life."

She is authentically a woman, too, for she sometimes has tarried over her toilette.

As on Friday, the black 22nd of November, 1963.

The president and she had been barnstorming Texas — she making perhaps a deeper impression than he. Coming out in a drizzle from their Fort Worth hotel, the president made a little speech to a street crowd.

He was sorry his wife was late, he said with a grin. "She is organizing herself and it takes a little longer for her, but of course she looks a lot better than we do."

When she appeared, for a breakfast of the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce, she wore a woolly, two-piece fuchsia suit—and this was the garb that was to be stained by an assassin's infamy.

The world knows now how, when the shots struck in Dallas, she cradled his head and cried out: "O, my God! They killed my husband! Jack! Jack!"

That was the last public lament she was to utter—though the beautiful cheeks have become slightly swollen from weeping in private.

It is well known, too, how she accompanied her fallen husband every tragic step—to the Dallas hospital, to the jet plane bearing the corpse back to Washington, down the yellow cargo lift to the concrete of Andrews Air Force Base while the purple lights of the runways seemed to blink in horror.

Everyone knows, too, how—garbed in black—she walked behind the coffin from the White House to St. Matthew's Cathedral, followed by many of the world's great. This was the kind of procession the martyred Lincoln had had, and this was the kind she felt was due to the nation and the world.

And she visited the bier and the grave again and again, sometimes bringing the children —Caroline to kiss the flag and John-John to give the scarcely comprehending military salute of a 3-year-old.

As if to bring order out of woeful chaos, she found time to attend to many things:

She consented to her husband's burial in Arlington National Cemetery rather than Brookline, Mass., as if to emphasize that he belonged to the nation. She designed the memorial cards for the Mass of requiem; asked that his most loved passages from Scripture be recited, that his inaugural speech be quoted.

She suggested that she herself receive the foreign leaders who came from beyond the seas to do homage; and when the new President, Lyndon B. Johnson, assured Latin-American diplomats that the Alliance for Progress would go forward, she too spoke to them, thanking them in Spanish for their sympathy.

Such is the character and faith of this woman that, as she sat with the Kennedy family at the Thanksgiving table in Hyannis Port, she could undoubtedly thank God for his mercies. And even find it in her heart to forgive the man who, in the blind brutality of his unerring aim, struck down the man she loved.

FEVER IN CHILDREN

Q. Is sponge bathing recommended for reducing fever in children? Should water or alcohol be used?

A. There is probably no better way to reduce fever than to sponge the child with slightly warm (never cold) water or alcohol and promote evaporation by gentle fanning.

OBESITY AND SINGERS

Q. It is true that some degree of obesity is necessary in order to acquire a strong singing voice?

A. No. In fact, excess weight may actually interfere with the powerful movements of abdominal respiration that are necessary for proper "breath support."

CONTACT LENSES

Q. Is there greater risk of injury to the eye in the event of an accident when contact lenses rather than ordinary glasses are worn?

A. No, contact lenses do not entail any greater risk than do spectacles in the event of an accident.

New Timing Rule Boosts Cage Scoring

100-Point Game Era Appears To Be at Hand Now

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

No, they haven't lowered the basket, widened the hoop or streamlined the ball, but college basketball's new timing rule may have served the same purpose—ushering in an era of the 100-point game.

Where 100-point games used to be fairly rare, they have become rather common in the first few days of the 1963-64 season. All is as it was before, the teams, the players, the arenas and the equipment. Only the rules have been changed.

The new rule dictates that the clock will stop automatically when the ball goes out-of-bounds. This apparently is adding actual playing time, and providing more time to score. Even against the usual, early-season opposition, witness Tuesday night's proceedings:

Sixth-ranked Arizona State, admittedly strong, rolled up 121 points to 79 for a New Mexico Western team not in the same class, but hardly considered a weak opponent.

Miami of Florida whipped Tampa 101-95, Auburn walloped Howard 102-44 and Oklahoma thumped South Dakota 100-79, with the Sooners setting a school record.

Baylor missed the 100-mark by two points in beating Arlington State 98-74, but ran up its highest point total in history.

And Oklahoma State, Hank Iba's slow-down types for whom 50 is a harvest, defeated Southern Illinois 83-54 for their fifth highest score in history.

For three days of action, 16 major college teams now have hit 100 or more points. West Texas State is tops so far, with 126.

They weren't all like that Tuesday.

Tenth-ranked Oregon State defeated Washington State 75-58, Minnesota needed a second half rally to down Iowa State 61-50, Vanderbilt came with a closing rush to subdue SMU 79-60 and Stanford downed Oregon 83-65 as Tom Dose collected 26 points.

Clemson went into double overtime before edging North Carolina 66-64 in an Atlantic Coast Conference game on Mike Bohonak's jump shot with two seconds left. Willie Somerset's 28 points and final two foul shots with 10 seconds left carried Duquesne to an 83-79 decision over St. Francis, Pa., and Seton Hall edged Catholic U. 69-67 in overtime on Richie Dek's tap in at the buzzer.

In other games, it was Kansas State 87, South Dakota State 59; Marquette 74, North Dakota 65; Florida 78, Florida State 55; St. John's, N.Y. 82, George Washington 64; Navy 77, Baltimore 60; Montana State 68, Nevada 54; Creighton 72, Hardin-Simmons 58; Richmond 71, East Carolina 67; William and Mary 81, Hampden-Sydney 49 and Holy Cross 87, St. Michael's, Vt. 69.

Tigers Seek Wins In Weekend Tilts

The Circleville High School basketball Tigers will be seeking their first win of the season this weekend when they host Greenfield on Friday and Teays Valley on Saturday.

The CHS Tigers are 0-1 in the South Central Ohio League and 0-3 for the season. Greenfield was stopped by powerful Hillsboro, 76-60 in a league opener last week.

The Highland County Tigers have a veteran team with four starters returning from the squad that finished fifth in the league last year.

Included in the regulars is all-Ohio center Tom Doyle, who averaged 15.2 points per game last year. Also back are forwards Dennis Roark, John King and Don Blake, guards John Jackson and George DeHaas, all lettermen.

NEWCOMER Jim Garrison is also in the battle for a starting position on the Greenfield five.

New coach is George Barnes who replaces Al Burger. Burger moved to Wilmington High School as head coach.

Last year Circleville and Greenfield split, with the Red and Black winning here and the

Lancaster Pin Tournay Slated

The annual Lancaster City Bowling tournament will begin March 7, 1964, it was announced by Kenneth E. Mace, secretary of the Lancaster Bowling Assn.

Bowling teams in Circleville are members of the association. The event is scheduled to be held at Tiki Lanes, Lancaster.

Last year, Isaac's Market, a Circleville bowling unit, won the team event.

The only appearance by a Harvard football team in a post season bowl game resulted in a 7-6 victory over Oregon in the Rose Bowl in 1920.

Giant-Brave Deal 'Perfect'

Player Swap Loudly Hailed

SAN DIEGO (AP)—"The perfect trade."

This is what baseball observers called the seven-player swap that sent Milwaukee catcher Del Crandall and pitchers Bob Hendley and Bob Shaw to the San Francisco Giants for star outfielder Felipe Alou, catcher, Ed Bailey, pitcher Billy Hoelt and a fourth player to be named later.

The transaction completed Tuesday night was the second major trade made at the winter baseball meetings, which moves from the present minor league headquarters here to Los Angeles Thursday for the major league sessions.

Giants and Braves officials expressed complete satisfaction with the trade, which they claimed filled in all the spots.

The rival managers were no less enthusiastic.

"We've got a more versatile club than any time since I've been manager," said the Braves' Bobby Bragan. "This really gives us some punch."

We picked up 150 RBIs and 41 home runs. Now I think we've got the best 1-2 catcher combination in baseball with Joe Torre and Bailey."

"We gave up a good ball player (Alou) to get two pitchers. Hendley and Shaw are the heart of the deal. But now, with Crandall, we've also got left (Tom Hiler) and right-handed hitting catchers," said Giants' skipper Alvin Dark.

Alou was the big man in the deal. The 28-year-old right-handed hitting slugger batted .281 with 20 home runs and 82 runs batted in last season. He will play center field for the Braves, flanked by Henry Aaron in right and either Lee Maye or Eddie Mathews in left.

Bailey, a 32-year-old left-handed hitting All-Star catcher, had 21 homers and 68 RBIs on a .263 batting average.

Hoelt, a 31-year-old southpaw, nursed a sore shoulder all last season and pitched only 24 innings.

Hendley, 24, had a 9-9 record with a 3.94 earned run average. He hurled three shutouts and has much promise.

Shaw, 30-year-old right-handed starter turned reliever last season, finished with a 7-11 record, but posted a 2.66 ERA in 48 games, striking out nearly twice as many as he walked.

Crandall, 33, batted .201 in 86 games. He is a veteran of 14 years in the National League with five years as an All-Star.

Griffith Voted 'Boxer of Year'

NEW YORK (AP)—"This is the greatest honor you can get in boxing. I hope to live up to it this year and every year."

So said welterweight champion Emile Griffith today when told the Boxing Writers' Association had selected him to receive the Edward J. Neil Memorial Plaque, awarded annually to the Boxer of the Year.

"I'm embarrassed but grateful," said Harry Markson, director of boxing for Madison Square Garden when notified he had been chosen for the James J. Walker Memorial Plaque, awarded annually "for long and meritorious service to boxing."

The Giants top all National League clubs in the number of pennants won since the turn of the century with 16.

Tittle, Brown Each Chalk Grid Records

NEW YORK (AP) — Y. A. Tittle and Jimmy Brown each snapped one of the more coveted records in the National Football League book Sunday, and retained their leads in NFL passing and rushing.

Johnny Unitas of Baltimore made the biggest advance in the statistical tables released today. He jumped from fourth to second among the passers on a fine performance against the Washington Redskins.

Old Y. A. threw two touchdown passes as the New York Giants scratched out a comeback victory over the Dallas Cowboys, and set a career record in that department. He now has 197, one more than Bobby Layne threw in a long career at New York, Detroit and Pittsburgh.

Brown ran for 179 yards in the big Cleveland victory over St. Louis, and made his season total 1,677, with two games left. He set the old record, 1,527 yards in 1958.

Brown also scored twice to take over the scoring lead with 90 points on 15 touchdowns.

Bobby Joe Conrad of St. Louis is remained the leading passer with 60 for 763 yards. Bobby Mitchell of Washington has the most yardage, 1,140 and Terry Barr of Detroit leads in touchdown passes with 11.

Browns Ponder Jinx in Detroit

CLEVELAND (AP) — When the Cleveland Browns take on the Lions in Detroit Sunday they will be trying to do something only one Cleveland team has done since the Browns got a National Football League franchise in 1950.

Under ex-coach Paul Brown, Cleveland won just one game against the Lions that counted—56-10 in the NFL championship game in 1954.

The Lions have captured all four regular season games played over the years and three times topped Cleveland in title bouts. That fact does not auger well for the Browns, who are tied for first with New York in the Eastern Division with two games to play.

Royals, Warriors Book Cleveland Tilt

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Royals and San Francisco Warriors will tangle in a National Basketball Association game Feb. 17 at the Cleveland Arena.

The game originally was scheduled for Indianapolis, but was moved to Cleveland because of an explosion in October at the Indiana Fairgrounds Coliseum that killed 71 persons.

Otterbein '5' Returns to Win Column

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Otterbein College's Cardinals, hitting more than 60 per cent of their shots from the floor, came from behind Tuesday night to defeat Marietta 87-64 and claim their first Ohio Conference victory in 24 outings.

Don Carlos, hitting with deadly accuracy, connected on 15 of 17 field goal tries. He wound up with 35 points to pace the triumph. Dick Sower led the Pioneers in the game at Westerville with 17.

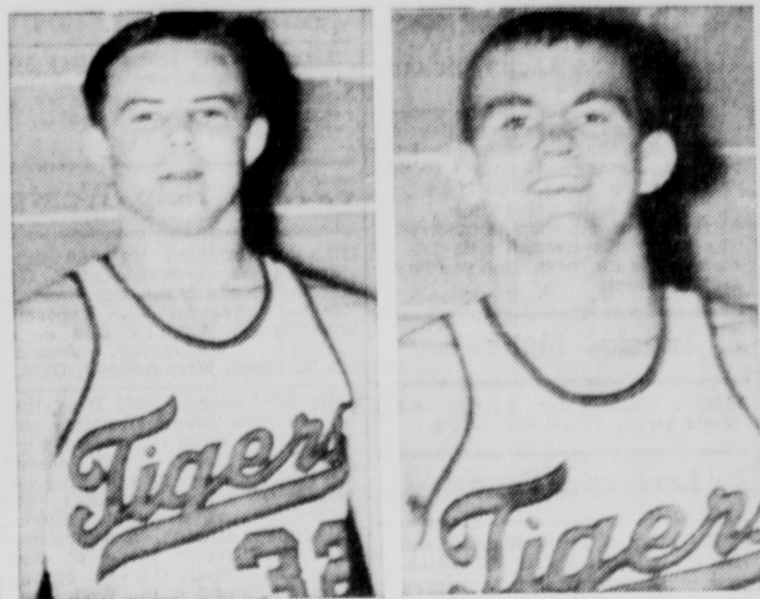

One other game was played in the Ohio Conference on Tuesday night's light collegiate card. Oberlin romped over Hiram 83-57. Dick Roberts poured in 19 points to lead Yeomen scorers. Willie Austin and Wendell Meeks had 18 apiece for the Terriers.

In non-conference action, Penn's Foxes broke a six year jinx and defeated Ashland 51-55 for the first time in 12 clashes with the Eagles. Bluffton and Ohio Northern went down to the wire in a see-saw battle before the Bluffs pulled it out 80-79.

Rex Taylor netted 24 points to lead Wilmington to a 73-71 triumph over Berea. Charles Reavis had 22 for the losers.

Central State's Marauders won their second straight compared to no losses as they walloped Anderson (Ind.) 66-51 on the Ohioans' boards. Malone lost at Clarion State (Pa.) 102-81, and Muskingum was defeated 55-47 at Buffalo State.

Heavy Cold Fails To Curtail Wilt

Wilt Chamberlain appears to have beaten the bug that threatened to end his string of 359 consecutive National Basketball Association games in New York Tuesday night.

Whether the Knickerbockers, trimmed by Wilt's San Francisco Warriors, 116-108, in the NBA's only action, can recover from their major ailment—losing—is another question. Chamberlain, bedded by a heavy chest cold prior to the Warriors-Knicks game, came off the sick list to play 41 minutes, score 21 points and haul in 22 rebounds.

In tonight's game San Francisco visits St. Louis, New York journeys to Detroit and Los Angeles is at Baltimore.

New Timing Rule Boosts Cage Scoring

100-Point Game Era Appears To Be at Hand Now

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
No, they haven't lowered the basket, widened the hoop or streamlined the ball, but college basketball's new timing rule may have served the same purpose—ushering in an era of the 100-point game.

Where 100-point games used to be fairly rare, they have become rather common in the first few days of the 1963-64 season. All is as it was before, the teams, the players, the arenas and the equipment. Only the rules have been changed.

The new rule dictates that the clock will stop automatically when the ball goes out-of-bounds. This apparently is adding actual playing time, and providing more time to score. Even against the usual, early-season opposition, witness Tuesday night's proceedings:

Sixth-ranked Arizona State, admittedly strong, rolled up 121 points to 79 for a New Mexico Western team not in the same class, but hardly considered a weak opponent.

Miami of Florida whipped Tampa 101-95, Auburn wallowed Howard 102-44 and Oklahoma thumped South Dakota 100-79, with the Sooners setting a school record.

Baylor missed the 100-mark by two points in beating Arlington State 98-74, but ran up its highest point total in history.

And Oklahoma State, Hank Iba's slow-down types for whom 50 is a harvest, defeated Southern Illinois 83-54 for their fifth highest score in history.

For three days of action, 16 major college teams now have hit 100 or more points. West Texas State is tops so far, with 126.

They weren't all like that Tuesday.

Tenth-ranked Oregon State defeated Washington State 75-58. Minnesota needed a second half rally to down Iowa State 61-50. Vanderbilt came with a closing rush to subdue SMU 79-60 and Stanford downed Oregon 83-65 as Tom Dose collected 26 points.

Clemson went into double overtime before edging North Carolina 66-64 in an Atlantic Coast Conference game on Mike Bohonak's jump shot with two seconds left. Willie Somerset's 28 points and final two foul shots with 10 seconds left carried Duquesne to an 83-79 decision over St. Francis, Pa., and Seton Hall edged Catholic U. 69-67 in overtime on Richie Dek's tap in at the buzzer.

In other games, it was Kansas State 87, South Dakota State 59; Marquette 74, North Dakota 65; Florida 78, Florida State 55; St. John's, N.Y. 82, George Washington 64; Navy 77, Baltimore 60; Montana State 68, Nevada 54; Creighton 72, Hardin-Simmons 58; Richmond 71, East Carolina 67; William and Mary 81, Hampden-Sydney 49 and Holy Cross 87, St. Michael's, Vt. 69.

Wapak Football Coach Dies of Heart Attack

WAPAKONETA, Ohio (AP)—Edward Gren, who recently completed his first year as head football coach at Wapakoneta High School, is dead of an apparent heart attack.

Gren, 40, a graduate of Ohio Northern University where he was a star athlete, was stricken at his home Tuesday night.

He taught physical education at Wapakoneta High before taking over as coach. His team won seven and lost three games.

Oddities Color Football Season

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — With 25,000 youngsters cavorting over Ohio's high school grid-irons each fall, some odd incidents are bound to occur.

The 1963 scholastic campaign was no exception.

For instance:

Ada and Lima Bath were poised for the kickoff. The Ada kicker rushed forward and swung his leg with a mighty effort. The Ada team swarmed downfield to halt the receiver in his tracks. The Bath boys started blocking everyone in sight, clearing a way for the return.

Then action stopped. The ball was still on the tee, back on Ada's 40-yard line. The kicker had missed it completely.

Jim Dutey, Coal Grove's highly successful coach, had one of those exasperating experiences. He led his boys to an unbeaten season—then found he had used an ineligible player through the entire schedule and was forced to forfeit all the victories.

Bob Bardash of Louisville set some kind of a record last year when he ran for 44 points on 22 two-point conversions. This year Bill Givens of Louisville duplicated the feat—44 points on 22 two-point conversion runs. And Bob Gladioux, Louisville's sensational junior halfback, scored 11 of his 18 touchdowns on runs of more than 30 yards. The longest was 84, and more than that number of college coaches have an eye on him.

The Northern Ohio League just couldn't name a champion Willard, Bucyrus and Bellevue wound up in a 6-1 tie for the laurels—first deadlock in the league's history.

Like Tony Crosby of Texas' national champions, Balde Velasquez of Pandora-Gilboa kicks 'em barefooted. He booted 11 of 17 extra points and a 29-yard field goal with his unprotected tootsies.

Miami Trace of Washington Court House lost 10 of its 11 starters due to injuries, five of the season—and altogether 16 youngsters were shelved for half the campaign. The record was 5-5 and Coach Dan O'Brien hopes he's had all his bad luck in one lump.

Jim Poulton had better luck Spencerville. He took the team over just two weeks before the opening game and piloted it to a 10-0 campaign.

Paul Ponzuric of Coldwater lost to Kenton the hard way. The final score was 10-8, with two safeties giving Kenton the winning margin. Both two-pointers came when the Coldwater center passed the ball far over the punter's head and into the end zone—twice.

Frank Terry, Dola Hardin Northern linebacker, was a big upset when his team was 28-0 behind Lima Bath in the late minutes. So he decided to do something about it. He broke through, grabbed the pigskin from the arms of a surprised Bath ball-carrier, and scooted 45 yards for a touchdown. Final score was 28-6—but Terry had made his point.

Franklin Field in Philadelphia, home of the University of Pennsylvania football team was formally opened on April 20, 1895.

The good news today is that NBC has arranged to have the American version of "That Was the Week That Was" move into the Friday night spot soon to vacated by "Harry's Girls."

The show is called, here and abroad, "TW3" for short. The topical satirical program is a hit and a political farce in Britain. A bright, irreverent American edition was produced as an experiment by NBC recently. It delighted a vast segment of the American audience, outraged another smaller group and resulted in a flood of mail to the network.

Recommended tonight — "the Danny Kaye Show," CBS, 10-11 EST with Glynis Johns and singer Jo Stafford as guests.

Much Ado Is Raised Over Stuck Tennis Ball

NEW YORK (AP) — Who stuck the tennis ball in Madison Square Garden's loudspeaker?

Ken Rosewall did it. And how did it get unstuck? It wasn't easy.

In fact, it took about a year. The tennis ball got stuck up there about 40 feet above the Garden floor way back last winter, when Rosewall tossed up a lob. When Rosewall lobs, he lobs. This one didn't come down.

It stuck between the horns on the big loudspeaker.

Since it was a pro tennis match, almost nobody noticed when the ball got stuck. It is not absolutely illegal to pay to see Rosewall play, but at the Garden it sometimes looks that way, and a slim group was on hand.

Anyway, it had never happened before and nobody knew how to get the tennis ball out of there.

Months went by. The man at the loudspeaker finally complained to the management that the thing was muffling his dulcet tones.

The manager called in the foreman, "Get the ball out of there," he said.

The foreman called in his assistant, "Get that ball out of there," the foreman said.

The assistant called in a workman, who didn't have an assistant, and told him to get the tennis ball out of there.

"What are you, some kind of nut?" the workman asked, "I'm not going up there unless you pay me double time."

"So OK, double time," said the assistant foreman, "Get a long ladder. What will it take you, five minutes?"

"At double time it will take all day," the workman said, "Them's union rules."

So he got a long ladder and propped it up against the loudspeaker, and climbed up, swaying gently. He got the ball and brought it down.

"Give me the ball," the assistant said.

The assistant gave it to the foreman, who gave it to the manager, who bounced it on the floor.

The tennis ball took one feeble little hop and then rolled quietly off into the corner.

It had been stuck up there so long it had gone dead.

"Well," the manager said, "it's not a total loss. If we ever get another tennis ball stuck up there we will know what to do."

Of course, it's a million to one shot. "But don't put this in the paper."

"Why?"

"The union might get sore."

NEW YORK (AP) — Mitch Miller, NBC's sing along man, doesn't look much like Santa in spite of the beard, but he is part of a Christmas story.

Some time back a group of Dominican nuns from a convent in Newburgh, N.Y., 50 miles north of Manhattan, asked Miller for advice. They wanted to raise some money for a building project, they said.

They had heard of the success a group of Belgian nuns were having with a hit record and they wanted to do something similar.

Miller, for years considered to be one of the smartest executives in the music business, advised them to ignore the big commercial recording companies, to make their own record and to sell them through their church. He also said he would try to help.

He did. The sisters—a choir of 55—made an album called "Joy" which has been selling, at $5 per album, so well they already have collected $150,000 for their project.

Miller was so impressed with their singing that he invited them to appear on his Monday night musical show. They replied regretfully that they were not allowed to.

Miller then wrote to their cardinal. That resulted in a luncheon invitation from Francis Cardinal Spellman for Mitch, and special permission for the sisters to appear on his show.

The 55 habited singers appeared on a program made last week. They sang two non-religious songs, one of them "76 Trombones." The taped show will broadcast Dec. 30.

The sisters went back to Newburgh with an extra $5,500 in performers fees to add to their building fund.

The good news today is that NBC has arranged to have the American version of "That Was the Week That Was" move into the Friday night spot soon to vacated by "Harry's Girls."

The show is called, here and abroad, "TW3" for short. The topical satirical program is a hit and a political farce in Britain. Solons OK Move To Vacate Alley

An ordinance drafted to vacate a portion of an alley that intersects S. Court St. was approved last night by City Council.

The request to close the alley had been submitted by the local Masonic Temple Assn. The group proposes to construct an elevator shaft in the vacated space next to its building on S. Court.

Approval to close the portion of alley, situated between the Masonic Temple and Barnhill Cleaners, came on a 5-2 vote that followed considerable discussion. Councilmen Boyd Horn and Dudley Carpenter cast negative votes.

The original proposal was presented to Council on Nov. 5 by Judge William Ammer, president of the Masonic Temple Assn. At that time it was passed on to the legislative body's service committee for further study.

THE PLAN met initial opposition from the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. and the General Telephone Co., both of which provided utility service to the area. They contended that relocation of lines due to closing of the alley would entail considerable cost.

Judge Ammer, appearing on behalf of the proposal again last night, said the earlier obstacles with the two utility firms have been worked out and that the plan is now acceptable to both. He made it known that the Masonic organization will stand part of the cost for relocating of lines and other required changes.

Two other obstacles confronting the project were access to the immediate area in case of fire and the necessity of providing a loading zone for Barnhill Cleaners.

Ammer said he has been informed that closing of the alley will not create a dangerous fire hazard. Space on Court St. previously taken by the alley itself has been suggested as a possible loading zone for Barnhill's.

Ammer, in reviewing the project, said the elevator improvement has been deemed necessary due to the long and undesirable flights of stairs that lead to the second and third floors of the Temple. He explained that the proposed shaft and other facets of the project would cost in the neighborhood of $60,000.

The judge said all five of the local Masonic bodies favor the project. He said both Barnhill and Clifton Motor Sales, located in the adjacent building to the south have indicated they will not oppose closing of the alley.

Ironton Vote Fraud Probe To Continue

IRONTON, Ohio (AP)—An investigation into charges of vote buying and other irregularities in two Lawrence County townships will continue, Secretary of State Ted W. Brown says.

Brown presided over a hearing Tuesday at which 23 witnesses testified regarding activities at polling places in Decatur and Washington townships during the Nov. 5 election.

Forty-six witnesses had been subpoenaed but only 23 testified. The others refused to do so because their subpoenas were dated Dec. 27 instead of Nov. 27.

Included in the testimony were statements that offers of cash were made to get voters to vote absentee ballots and "to vote them our way." Others claimed that at least one precinct official found ways to learn how voters had cast their ballots, and reported the information to persons who were not precinct officials.

The names of State Sen. Oakley Collins, R-Ironton, and Hubert Phillips, Ballard Collins, Emery (Pete) McFann and others were mentioned frequently in the charges. Only one of the 23 witnesses refused to swear that signed statements, given prior to the hearing, were true.

Brown said the investigation stemmed from suspicions over an unusually high number of absentee and disabled voter ballots cast in the two townships.

Ike Is Seen Emerging As Republican Kingmaker

U.N. Readies Ban against South Africa

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The U.N. Security Council is expected to approve today a Norwegian resolution calling for a worldwide arms embargo aimed at forcing South Africa to abandon its racial policies.

Norway's proposal reportedly won reluctant support from the African bloc after behind-the-scenes bargaining showed that the African demand for a total trade boycott of South Africa would run the risk of a Western power veto.

The Soviet Union complained that the Norwegian proposal did not go far enough, but indicated it would support it.

The resolution calls for the toughest action by U.N. members since South Africa's apartheid policy of racial segregation was attacked in the U.N. 17 years ago.

Designed to paralyze South Africa's arms industry, it goes considerably beyond a council resolution in August calling for a limited arms embargo.

The Norwegian resolution calls on all nations to observe the previous resolution and also to halt at once sale and shipment of equipment and materials for the manufacture and maintenance of arms and ammunition in South Africa.

Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko told the council appeals to South Africa for moderation had proved useless.

"The time for half measures is over," he said.

Turncoat Is Bound To Jury for Assault

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Korean War turncoat Lowell D. Skinner has been bound to the Summit County grand jury on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. Skinner waived a preliminary hearing Tuesday on the Nov. 18 shooting.

PTA Board To Meet

The Executive Board of the area Parent Teacher Assn. will meet 7:30 p. m. tomorrow at the high school.

death say the former president recognizes that the Republican situation has changed so rapidly as to invite efforts to get the kind of moderate candidate he believes can win.

Eisenhower has opposed public discussion of political matters at this time. He was reported to have suggested it might be well for Republicans to preserve an air of bipartisanship longer into the new year than they had planned by postponing a series of scheduled Jan. 29 closed-circuit television fund-raising dinners.

With his treasury bare, however, national chairman William E. Miller ruled that the dinners will go on as scheduled. Eisenhower, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon are to be among the speakers.

Before Kennedy's death, the Republican nomination scramble was developing rapidly into a two-man contest between Goldwater and Rockefeller. It was a poorly kept secret that Eisenhower didn't view this prospect with any enthusiasm, but there wasn't much he could do about it.

The death of Kennedy and the elevation of Lyndon B. Johnson to the presidency changed things. Goldwater supporters had figured their man had a chance of beating Kennedy by carrying the South and some of the more conservative states in the Midwest and West. Now he would be facing a Texas president with an image more conservative than a Kennedys.

If Goldwater decides to get into the race—and there now is some doubt that he will — it probably would take him time to work up the same head of steam against Johnson that he maintained in flailing away at Kennedy's policies.

The substitution of Johnson for Kennedy weakened Goldwater's position in the South where he was strongest. Ordinarily the Democratic change would have been expected to help Rockefeller, promising Republicans a better chance of carrying New York.

But even some of the governor's supporters concede privately that his political fortunes do not seem to be recovering from his divorce and remarriage.

In such a situation there is a feeling that if Eisenhower and his friends of the National Republican Citizens Committee can find a suitable candidate in the next couple of months the way would be open for the type of buildup that made Wendell T. Willkie the nominee in 1940.

Nixon, of course, remains in the forefront of possible contenders. While he has praised Nixon as well qualified, the impression remains that Eisenhower would rather turn to another for the 1964 race.

City Council Approves Funds For Water Tower Demolition

City Council last night approved an ordinance appropriating money to pay for the cost of tearing down the City Water Department's old tower northwest of Circleville.

Approval came after a second reading of the measure. The move was halted at the last meeting when a call for suspension of rules failed to gain the necessary majority.

Councilman Boyd Horn, opposed to the standpipe demolition since it was advocated, voted against the measure again last night. However, the ordinance was passed on a 6-vote.

Horn contends the old tower may be needed in the future, although the city's new water treatment plant is now in operation. The Water Department has countered that continued use of the standpipe would entail a cost of about $200,000.

THE APPROVED ordinance calls for the appropriation of $750 from unappropriated monies of the waterworks operating funds to pay for the demolition. The removal starting date has not been announced.

A second money ordinance authorized the appropriation of $4,094.40 for purchase of land next to the new water plant. Utilities manager Ervin Leist, explaining the measure, said obtaining of the land will serve two purposes — to serve as future well sites and to provide protection for the new plant.

The land involved amounts to about 13½ acres and will be purchased from the C. F. Replogle Co. The necessary funds will come from unappropriated monies of the waterworks operating fund.

Additional legislation enacted was in the form of a resolution authorizing the clerk of council to advertise filing of estimated assessments for the aggregate cost of constructing curbs and gutters at Circle Drive and Markley Road.

A petition, submitted to the city fathers by residents along one section of the Ridgewood Drive area, sounded a request to change the name of N. Nicholas Drive to Edgewood Drive.

The residents involved have claimed the present name causes confusion in mail and other directional problems.

SOLICITOR Kenneth Robbins said proper legislation would have to be drawn if the street name is to be changed. The petition was referred to the service committee.

Last night's meeting marked the final session for Dudley Carpenter, veteran councilman who did not seek office this year. He bid his fellow solons farewell, explaining that he plans to be in Hawaii when the Dec. 17 meeting is held.

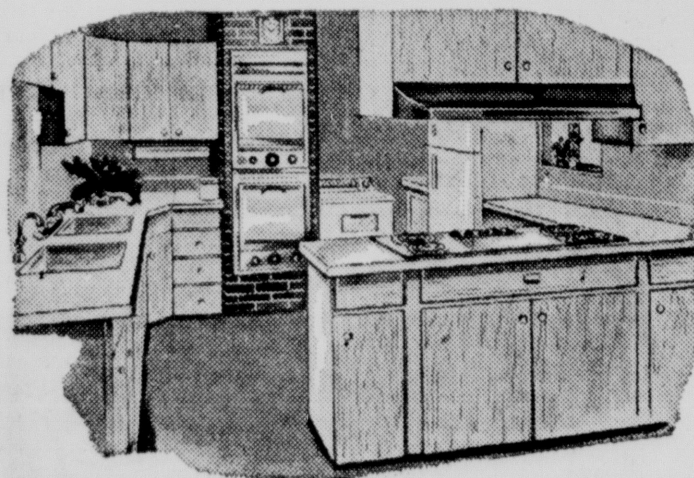

The departing councilman expressed thanks to his legislative comrades for their excellent cooperation over the years. He in turn was commended by Council President Harold Clifton for a job well done during his long tenure.

Carpenter, chairman of the finance committee, also praised service director-engineer Ronald Sharrett for his ability in getting streets repaired and the economical manner in which he handled funds allotted to him.

Solons OK Move To Vacate Alley

An ordinance drafted to vacate a portion of an alley that intersects S. Court St. was approved last night by City Council.

The request to close the alley had been submitted by the local Masonic Temple Assn. The group proposes to construct an elevator shaft in the vacated space next to its building on S. Court.

Approval to close the portion of alley, situated between the Masonic Temple and Barnhill Cleaners, came on a 5-2 vote that followed considerable discussion. Councilmen Boyd Horn and Dudley Carpenter cast negative votes.

The original proposal was presented to Council on Nov. 5 by Judge William Ammer, president of the Masonic Temple Assn. At that time it was passed on to the legislative body's service committee for further study.

THE PLAN met initial opposition from the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. and the General Telephone Co., both of which provided utility service to the area. They contended that relocation of lines due to closing of the alley would entail considerable cost.

Judge Ammer, appearing on behalf of the proposal again last night, said the earlier obstacles with the two utility firms have been worked out and that the plan is now acceptable to both. He made it known that the Masonic organization will stand part of the cost for relocating of lines and other required changes.

Two other obstacles confronting the project were access to the immediate area in case of fire and the necessity of providing a loading zone for Barnhill Cleaners.

Ammer said he has been informed that closing of the alley will not create a dangerous fire hazard. Space on Court St., previously taken by the alley itself has been suggested as a possible loading zone for Barnhill's.

Ammer, in reviewing the project, said the elevator improvement has been deemed necessary due to the long and undesirable flights of stairs that lead to the second and third floors of the Temple. He explained that the proposed shaft and other facets of the project would cost in the neighborhood of $60,000.

The judge said all five of the local Masonic bodies favor the project. He said both Barnhill and Clifton Motor Sales, located in the adjacent building to the south have indicated they will not oppose closing of the alley.

Ironton Vote Fraud Probe To Continue

IRONTON, Ohio (AP)—An investigation into charges of vote buying and other irregularities in two Lawrence County townships will continue, Secretary of State Ted W. Brown says.

Brown presided over a hearing Tuesday at which 23 witnesses testified regarding activities at polling places in Decatur and Washington townships during the Nov. 5 election.

Forty-six witnesses had been subpoenaed but only 23 testified. The others refused to do so because their subpoenas were dated Dec. 27 instead of Nov. 27.

Included in the testimony were statements that offers of cash were made to get voters to vote absentee ballots and "to vote them our way." Others claimed that at least one precinct official found ways to learn how voters had cast their ballots, and reported the information to persons who were not precinct officials.

The names of State Sen. Oakley Collins, R-Ironton, and Hubert Phillips, Ballard Collins, Emery (Pete) McFann and others were mentioned frequently in the charges. Only one of the 23 witnesses refused to swear that signed statements, given prior to the hearing, were true.

Brown said the investigation stemmed from suspicions over an unusually high number of absentee and disabled voter ballots cast in the two townships.

Ike Is Seen Emerging As Republican Kingmaker

By JACK BELL
A.P. Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The political upheaval caused by the assassination of President Kennedy may project former President Eisenhower actively into the search for a 1964 GOP presidential nominee.

Eisenhower has disclaimed any desire to become a kingmaker. But associates who have talked to him since Kennedy's death say the former president recognizes that the Republican situation has changed so rapidly as to invite efforts to get the kind of moderate candidate he believes can win.

Eisenhower has opposed public discussion of political matters at this time. He was reported to have suggested it might be well for Republicans to preserve an air of bipartisanship longer into the new year than they had planned by postponing a series of scheduled Jan. 29 closed-circuit television fund-raising dinners.

With his treasury bare, however, national chairman William E. Miller ruled that the dinners will go on as scheduled. Eisenhower, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon are to be among the speakers.

Before Kennedy's death, the Republican nomination scramble was developing rapidly into a two-man contest between Goldwater and Rockefeller. It was a poorly kept secret that Eisenhower didn't view this prospect with any enthusiasm, but there wasn't much he could do about it.

The death of Kennedy and the elevation of Lyndon B. Johnson to the presidency changed things. Goldwater supporters had figured their man had a chance of beating Kennedy by carrying the South and some of the more conservative states in the Midwest and West. Now he would be facing a Texas president with an image more conservative than a Kennedys.

If Goldwater decides to get into the race—and there now is some doubt that he will — it probably would take him time to work up the same head of steam against Johnson that he maintained in flailing away at Kennedy's policies.

The substitution of Johnson for Kennedy weakened Goldwater's position in the South where he was strongest. Ordinarily the Democratic change would have been expected to help Rockefeller, promising Republicans a better chance of carrying New York.

But even some of the governor's supporters concede privately that his political fortunes do not seem to be recovering from his divorce and remarriage.

In such a situation there is a feeling that if Eisenhower and his friends of the National Republican Citizens Committee can find a suitable candidate in the next couple of months the way would be open for the type of buildup that made Wendell T. Willkie the nominee in 1940.

Nixon, of course, remains in the forefront of possible contenders. While he has praised Nixon as well qualified, the impression remains that Eisenhower would rather turn to another for the 1964 race.

U.N. Readies Ban against South Africa

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The U.N. Security Council is expected to approve today a worldwide arms embargo aimed at forcing South Africa to abandon its racial policies.

Norway's proposal reportedly won reluctant support from the African bloc after behind-the-scenes bargaining showed that the African demand for a total trade boycott of South Africa would run the risk of a Western power veto.

The Soviet Union complained that the Norwegian proposal did not go far enough, but indicated it would support it.

The resolution calls for the toughest action by U.N. members since South Africa's apartheid policy of racial segregation was attacked in the U.N. 17 years ago.

Designed to paralyze South Africa's arms industry, it goes considerably beyond a council resolution in August calling for a limited arms embargo.

The Norwegian resolution calls on all nations to observe the previous resolution and also to halt at once sale and shipment of equipment and materials for the manufacture and maintenance of arms and ammunition in South Africa.

Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko told the council appeals to South Africa for moderation had proved useless.

"The time for half measures is over," he said.

City Council Approves Funds For Water Tower Demolition

City Council last night approved an ordinance appropriating money to pay for the cost of tearing down the City Water Department's old tower northwest of Circleville.

Approval came after a second reading of the measure. The move was halted at the last meeting when a call for suspension of rules failed to gain the necessary majority.

Councilman Boyd Horn, opposed to the standpipe demolition since it was advocated, voted against the measure again last night. However, the ordinance was passed on a 6-vote.

Horn contends the old tower may be needed in the future, although the city's new water treatment plant is now in operation. The Water Department has countered that a continued use of the standpipe would entail a cost of about $200,000.

THE APPROVED ordinance calls for the appropriation of $750 from unappropriated monies of the waterworks operating funds to pay for the demolition. The removal starting date has not been announced.

A second money ordinance authorized the appropriation of $4,094.40 for purchase of land next to the new water plant. Utilities manager Ervin Leist, explaining the measure, said obtaining of the land will serve two purposes — to serve as future well sites and to provide protection for the new plant.

The land involved amounts to about 13½ acres and will be purchased from the C. F. Replogle Co. The necessary funds will come from unappropriated monies of the waterworks operating fund.

Additional legislation enacted was in the form of a resolution authorizing the clerk of council to advertise filing of estimated assessments for the aggregate cost of constructing curbs and gutters at Circle Drive and Markley Road.

A petition, submitted to the city fathers by residents along one section of the Ridgewood Drive area, sounded a request to change the name of N. Nicholas Drive to Edgewood Drive. The residents involved have claimed the present name causes confusion in mail and other directional problems.

SOLICITOR Kenneth Robbins said proper legislation would have to be drawn if the street name is to be changed. The petition was referred to the service committee.

Last night's meeting marked the final session for Dudley Carpenter, veteran councilman who did not seek office this year. He bid his fellow solons farewell, explaining that he plans to be in Hawaii when the Dec. 17 meeting is held.

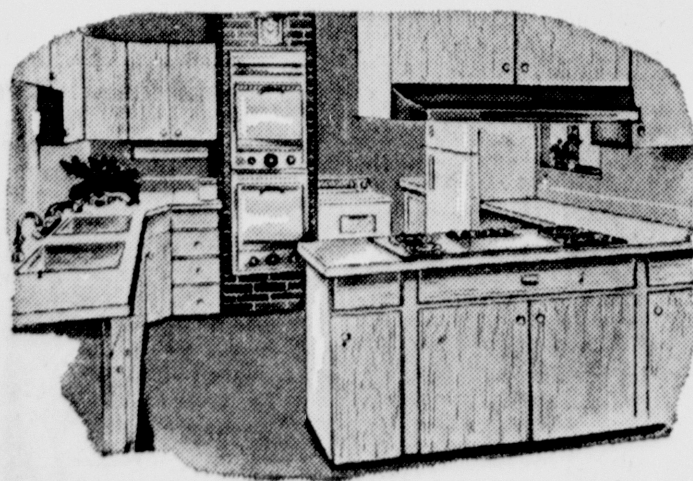

The departing councilman expressed thanks to his legislative comrades for their excellent cooperation over the years. He in turn was commended by Council President Harold Clifton for a job well done during his long tenure.

Carpenter, chairman of the finance committee, also praised service director-engineer Ronald Sharrett for his ability in getting streets repaired and the economical manner in which he handled funds allotted to him.
